Follow the bouncing balls

BOUNCING BALLS were the order of the day Sept. 20 as the California Challenge Polo Match (left) and Carmel Youth Soccer League matches (right) got underway, polo at Collins Field in Pebble Beach and soccer at Carmel Middle School fields. As befits each sport, the settings were appropriate: champagne, caviar and furs for the polo set, soda pop, orange slices and sweats for the soccer set. The polo match, a benefit for the Richard D. Collins Cancer Wellness Center and the Pebble Beach Foundation that attracted about 500 people, featured the North Team versus the South Team, with the south coming out on top 7-4. Several soccer matches took place Saturday to kick off the 1986 soccer season; above, the Bruisers take on Tularcitos Ratts (striped shirts). Games will be played every Saturday at CMS from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. through the first week of December. (Holly McFarland photos.)

Council extends building ban, clarifies terms

By NANCY HILLS

BEDROOMS ARE OK, but bathrooms a no-no.

The Carmel City Council approved a 65-day urgency ordinance during a special meeting Sept. 22 that allows construction deemed not to increase water use but prohibits permits for any kind of building or activity that increases the number of water fixtures or water consumption on site.

The new ordinance refines a 45-day urgency measure the council approved Aug. 11 in response to water use figures from California-American Water Co. Those figures showed Carmel used 99.99 percent of its Monterey Peninsula Water Management District 1,030 ac. ft. annual water allocation. If Carmel exceeds its annual allocation, the water district can put its own moratorium on water meter permits within the city limits.

The first urgency measure stopped some business licenses and most use and building permits. The new ordinance is more specific about exemptions to the moratorium.

The 65 days gives the city more time to receive and evaluate monthly water use figures, explained City Administrator Doug Schmitz. It also allows more time for the water management district to respond to the city's Sept. 8 request for an increase in the city's water allocation. The district board could review and make a determination during its November meeting.

The council specifically removed bedrooms from the prohibited list, but left new bathrooms and dwelling units on.

Additionally, the council directed city planning staff to accept applications for projects under the moratorium, then proceed with the permit process but not issue the final building permits. Staff was also directed to start development of a permanent water conservation ordinance.

When the water ordinance was announced, Mayor Clint Eastwood stepped down from the meeting stating "personal reasons" in reference to his proposed building project on San Carlos Street, which is waiting for a building permit. Councilwoman Helen Arnold was absent, which left Councilmembers Bob Fischer, Elinor Laiolo and Jim Wright to approve the moratorium 3-0.

"We have to take steps," temporary chairman Bob Fischer said. "Nobody likes to do it but it has to be done."

Later in the meeting, Fischer explained to a concerned member of the audience that the council approved the first ordinance so Carmel could take the initiative away from the water district and control its own planning process.

"I think that's a good thing," he added.

IN THE residential area, a tentative list drawn up by staff of projects that are now permitted include:

- Replacement of existing structures, without the addition of new bathrooms, dwellings or additional water fixtures.

- Adding a deck or garage.
- Enlarging a kitchen with no new fixtures.
- Enlarging or adding a bedroom.
- Adding a den or large storage area.
- Adding a shower to existing tub — if it saves water.

Projects that will not receive a building permit include:

- Adding a hot tub.
- Splitting a tub/shower into two facilities (constitutes a new bathroom).
- Adding a guest house.
- Enlarging a kitchen and adding new fixtures.

In the commercial area, applications that can be approved include:

- Most use permits and licenses.
- Building facade remodels.
- Signs.
- Remodels changing landscaping to native or drought-tolerant plants.

Commercial projects that come under the moratorium include:

- New use permits or licenses that increase employees.
- New business licenses or use permits for restaurants, hairdressers, florists, etc.
- Remodels that increase landscaping area.
- Construction that adds floor space or divides shop spaces.

The council specifically removed bedroom additions from the prohibited list, deciding that it was not necessarily true that a new bedroom increased the number of people in the home. The new law also retains the original ordinance that mandates Carmel establish a cumulative 10 percent water reserve by increasing the reserve 2 percent annually for five years.

Rule by the few

Dear Editor:

I recently had occasion to sit through a session of the staff and planning commission meeting in the Monterey City Council chambers. I say "staff" and planning commission because it was very evident at the beginning of the hearing of one beleaguered group that "staff" had made up its mind that the following project was to be denounced as not to their liking.

Having thus far heard sessions of both council and planning commission of Monterey I am convinced the people of this beautiful city are being governed by mediocre mediocrity. The attack on the aquarium is a classic example of narrow-minded response to a few people with personal gripes who lead other people into believing they too should adopt the same gripes. They have thus denied excellence in favor of tawdry mediocrity.

At the planning commission meeting a rare remark was made about "group of older people who wouldn't be around long anyway" at which everyone on the commission laughed.

In this great country of ours we are blessed with an opportunity to express our own thinking at the polls. Hopefully every thinking person will exercise that opportunity this coming November. We don't have to be ruled by a few and we should not allow ourselves to be so ruled.

Give him a break

Dear Editor:

After reading Michael Gardner's excellent piece last week about our new mayor, I would like to add a few words.

It is not Mr. Eastwood's fault that tourists flock to Carmel. I would venture to say tourists are a bigger pain in the neck for him than for us. Just try and put yourself in his shoes for a while.

Personally I would not go 10 yards to see a movie star. They are people just like us. Not as good in many cases. However, I do not include Mr. Eastwood in this statement. I think he is a fine businessman and charming to boot. Who else would have his sense of humor with all he has to put up with?

With reference to Mayor Eastwood's assistant: if he can afford it, why shouldn't he have someone who can provide expert assistance?

Can you imagine what his life would be like if his address and phone number were made public? His phone would never stop ringing and the hordes would be camping out on his doorstep day and night. Give him a break.

Mr. Eastwood is a very refreshing character. He gets things done without all the clap-trap that is customary in this town. The parking lot by the post office is an example.

Who is responsible for what Carmel has become over the last 30 years? Is it the city councils, mayors and planning commissioners? Or the landlords who, when leases expire, turn out good resident-oriented businesses to remodel and subdivide their properties, usually leasing to non-residential-oriented shops such as galleries and craft shops.

Let's face it, most of Carmel's troubles can be laid directly where they belong — in the marketplace — economics is another word for it. Come on Carmelites, none of us like it but this condition is here to stay.

A dumb act

Dear Editor:

In answer to the letter from "J. Kay, Los Angeles" in the Sept. 18 issue of the Pine Cone, I would like to answer him/her as follows:

The ONLY person(s) who would try and waylay Mr. Eastwood in a parking area (other than possibly relatives and/or very personal friends) would be "autograph seekers." Anyone having legitimate business would seek a conference with our mayor through the correct procedure by contacting city hall for an appointment. It was very easy for him to spot that J. Kay was "not a Carmel resident wanting to ask him about a local issue . . ."

Therefore, if J. Kay (and all others) are looking for recognition from a "movie star," I suggest this be done in Hollywood when Mr. Eastwood is in that area. As mayor, he has been elected to conduct the business of this community — not to be a tourist attraction. I feel he was totally in order to "wave away" someone who approached him in the manner as described. To be blunt, this action by J. Kay was DUMB.

The Brillo pad kid

Dear Editor:

When I read that Michael Gardner was leaving the Pine Cone I tried to telephone him right away. I was too late. He had already left for Chico. I have learned that my call was one of many, all to express appreciation for the outstanding work Mike had done while with the Carmel Pine Cone, and to wish him well in his new position.

A teddy bear, the kid with the Brillo pad hair, a one-man newspaper — Mike was called all of those things from time to time. In Carmel, he was also known as a fair, unbiased, hard working reporter. One who listened, who knew what was going on, and who grasped the pulse of the community. Michael was proud of the number of city council meetings he'd attended. In fact, Michael Gardner has probably attended more public meetings than just about anyone in town.

"How do you find time to cover, and write, about so many things in one week, Mike?" I once asked him.

"I learned that my first draft would probably end up in print. There simply wasn't enough time for rewrites. I try to get it right the first time."

There were times when Michael wrote things that exasperated me, but I could not deny that he was trying to report on all facets of a story. Mike Gardner has worked for newspapers as a photographer and an editor, as well as a reporter. But, with all due respect to his talents, I must confess that I will always picture him wearing his ballcap and one of his many assorted T-shirts, walking down Ocean Avenue, camera in hand.

Michael, you have been a good friend to Carmel, and we all wish you well. You'll be missed.

Friends' seek support

Dear Editor:

Due to popular demand, Friends of Sunset

Center, a non-profit organization, was recently founded by local area citizens dedicated to the purpose of modifying Sunset Cultural Center, completed in 1929, in a way that will better serve the present and foreseeable needs of the community.

Sunset Center's importance has grown over the years to make it a very literal "cultural center," but its popularity has often had the unfortunate result of limiting access of residents of Carmel-by-the-Sea to important events stated there.

The present focus of the Friends of Sunset Center addresses the addition of a larger concert hall at the south end of the existing structure which would operate in conjunction with the present facility.

While working to that end, it is the intent of the Friends of Sunset Center that the residential character of the center's surroundings should be a prime consideration in any proposal, and that the unique village character of Carmel-by-the-Sea must be maintained. We regard the general plan of preservation of atmosphere as a responsibility equal to our devotion to the expansion of cultural life here.

In order to achieve our objective, this organization intends to work in close concert with city officials, civic leaders and groups which utilize Sunset Center on a regular basis in hopes of finding a consensus and realizing results which benefit all concerned.

We welcome your support.

The emperor's clothes

Dear Editor:

Schools Chief Bill Honig stunned thinking people when he suggested last spring that cheating is part of human nature. Now he says that pre-marital sex is wrong, and that belief will be the foundation of sex education in California.

Our society has changed dramatically, particularly over the last 20 years. People no longer get married right out of school; they often wait until their late twenties or thirties. And many are eschewing the whole idea, pointing to the poor quality of marriages today, and to the divorce rate.

Many people choose "living with" relationships and with greater success than those formally sanctioned by the state. To think that mature people need a license from the state in order to have sexual intercourse is neolithic.

Sex is not a reward for getting married, any more than it is merely a vehicle for continuing the species. Conscious, caring people enjoy sex as a form of communication, a means of achieving greater intimacy with their partner and themselves.

More than 80 percent of our culture has sex before they are married. When the premise of sex education is that pre-marital sex is wrong, it undercuts the credibility of all the information to follow.

The first criterion of a healthy, successful civilization is not whether people have a lot of money but how they treat their children. The U.S. ranks 18th in the world in infant mortality. A third of our children are malnourished to the point of suffering permanent brain damage. We abuse them physically more than any "developed" nation, and then we incarcerate them in a system that numbs their minds so both parents can work.

Functioning as nothing more than a neopenal detention system, our schools do little to teach our children how they will be able to approach the problems of the 21st century. The texts are outdated, the teachers burning out at an alarming rate, and half of the high school graduates can't even write an intelligible letter. Frustrated and bored with having to memorize irrelevant information, our children are turning to drugs and suicide in record numbers.

Evolution means that our children are better endowed than their parents. There is much they have to teach us, if we would only allow it. At least we should avoid discouraging them. They already can see that the emperor is naked. Let us answer all of their questions, and with the truth.

This goofy world

Dear Editor:

The following is a report by a major San Francisco radio station:

The federal government plans to spend $1.5 billion on bomb shelters for state and local officials, but they haven't forgotten the rest of us. They will allot $3.8 million of our tax money for radiation instruments for us so that we can measure the degree of radiation on our bodies from a nuclear attack. They are all heart. Can't you just see them pulling up the gangplank when their shelters are full?

I heard a report that $1 billion will be spent to build a giant concrete bomb shelter in the nation's capitol so as to preserve the officials and "the records" in case of a nuclear attack. Our president plans to be flying around directing the entire affair from his plane. Sounds like a job for Rambo.

Now to more mundane affairs: Mr. Rehnquist has been arrested for speeding, having no car registration papers in possession and driving with an invalid driver's license. This is the controversial character designated by President Reagan to be Chief Justice of the Supreme Court so that he can tell the rest of us how to "do it right."

It just seems to get goofier and goofier.

A resident in spirit

Dear Editor:

After visiting Carmel in August of 1985 I took out a subscription to the Pine Cone. I've enjoyed keeping up with local events and plan to make a return visit soon.

I find myself very much in agreement with the comments expressed by D. Patrick Gallagher in his letter which appeared Sept. 4, although I hope it will be less than 25 years before I can afford to buy a home in Carmel.

I'm probably the only tourist who doesn't care whether or not he attends a city council meeting, buys a "Clintville" souvenir or has dinner at the Hog's Breath. My only reason for wanting to speak to Mr. Eastwood is that we share the same hobby — jazz piano.

I came to Carmel and will continue to come back because of the beauty of its surroundings, its shops, restaurants and galleries and most importantly, the warmth and hospitality of its citizens.

I'd like to close by saying that I'm opposed to Sen. Pete Wilson's plan to federalize the Big Sur region. The destiny of an area can not be separated from the wishes of its people. And that destiny should not be decided in Washington, D.C.

I'm a resident in spirit and hope to see you all soon.

Dear Editor:

I protest. Anyone without political prejudice should know Sue Hutchinson does not act as mayor of Carmel-by-the-Sea.

For many months I have observed Ms. Hutchinson acting as a loyal, hard worker for Mr. Eastwood.

Council wants to give tour buses green light

By DAVID LELAND

THE MESSAGE came through loud and clear at the city council's special meeting on Sept. 22: "What's good for tourists is good for Carmel."

At the request of Councilwoman Elinor Laiolo, a report which recommends that tour buses be allowed to remain parked longer so tourists, among other things, can have more time to shop and eat, has been forwarded to the city's general plan and traffic committees.

Currently tour buses are allotted, by law, 20 minutes in the bus stopping area on Junipero Avenue between Ocean and Seventh avenues.

In Laiolo's report several recommendations are proposed, including the buses being allowed to remain a longer period of time, hourly parking fees and an alternate parking area for vans.

In other action the council:

- Unanimously awarded a $132,720 contract to Grant Construction for the resurfacing of Rio Road.

- Extended for 65 days an emergency building ban, but modified the ordinance to allow building if it does not increase water usage in individual proposals. (See related story in this issue).

- Transferred $4,000 from the city bank account to the city's 70th birthday celebration account. A 10 percent contingency fund was waived by the council after a report from Sunset Center Director Richard Tyler, who is planning the city's birthday party, revealed that additional funds would not be necessary. It was estimated by Tyler that the "Longtimer's Breakfast" would cost about $3,000.

Also included in the celebration will be an open house at city hall to be held Oct. 28 from 2 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 8:30 p.m. Commissioners will serve as docents in explaining how the city offices function.

- Ratified Mayor Clint Eastwood's appointment of Richard Little to the Hatton Canyon Advisory Committee. Little, a long-time Carmel resident, is a retired attorney and former assistant state controller. The Hatton Canyon Freeway project is included in the Carmel Valley Master Plan, whose EIR hearings begin Oct. 8.

- Continued until its Oct. 7 meeting an authorization for the mayor to enter into an agreement with the Pine Inn with regard to architectural services for a joint parking facility at Sixth Avenue and Lincoln Street.

- Were informed by Doug Schmitz, city administrator, that the final EIR for the Carmel Valley Master Plan was not ready for consideration by the council. Schmitz said there will be time to review the document before its approval, which is anticipated to be before year's end.

- Scheduled for the 10 a.m. Oct. 7 an inspection tour, a walk around the intersection of Sixth and Junipero avenues. At that point the council will decide if it will relocate the handicapped parking area to Sixth Avenue and Mission Street.

This was in response to a request by Fish House on the Park restaurant owner Ed Haber.

Haber had complained to the council about the negative "visual impact" the newly-constructed restrooms at Devendorf Park were having on restaurant patrons.

In addition to considering moving the handicapped parking places, the city has replaced the 60-watt light bulbs in the restroom facility with 25-watt bulbs so the restrooms will not be as brightly lit; has begun a replanting operation around the facility; and have contacted the city postmaster about relocating the mailboxes at that corner.

These matters before council were approved without Councilman Bob Fischer and Councilwoman Helen Arnold. Fischer arrived late and took part in the water moratorium issue, but Arnold's absence was unexplained, according to Jeanne Brehmer, city clerk.

DATA FOR the report on tour bus activity was gathered by 14 volunteer residents, including Laiolo, on Aug. 20, 25, 26, 28, 29, and 30 between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. While the tour buses parked, the volunteers interviewed both bus drivers and passengers.

Laiolo pointed out to the council that reports of 300 or more tour buses invading Carmel were greatly exaggerated. The most tour buses found by the committee in one day was 32 on Tuesday, Aug. 26. A total of 131 buses and vans used the parking area during the six-day study.

Laiolo said the bus drivers major complaint was the lack of time allotted them for parking.

The 20-minute time limit borders on cruel and unusual punishment to some tourists, according to Laiolo.

"It was sad," Laiolo said, talking about a busload of tourists from Kansas. "These poor folks had traveled from Kansas and all they got to see was the Plaza."

The consensus among the drivers from the 32 companies interviewed was that one hour should be the designated time limit for tour bus parking.

To accomplish this, the bus drivers suggested a parking fee (San Francisco charges tour buses $3 an hour) and, during summer season, the addition of parking spaces to include the whole block where the buses now park. The hours suggested would be 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. This would allow delivery trucks time to unload merchandise bound for plaza stores in the morning, the report states.

The drivers also suggested that Carmel businesses provide the tour buses with maps of the city, information on the history of Carmel, brochures, walking tour maps and, possibly, greeters.

The only opposition to the possibility of an expanded time limit for tour buses came from Councilman James Wright who said: "I hope they don't expand the tour bus schedule (if it becomes easier to park in Carmel)."

But at least one long-time Carmel resident thinks the idea of catering further to busloads of tourists leaves much to be desired.

"I'm against it," Jane McKay said. "I realize everyone has to earn a living, but it's time to put our finger in the dike."

"The town's not all that pleasant with the tourists, sometimes it's damn near impossible to move."

Agreeing with McKay was former Carmel Mayor Charlotte Townsend, in a telephone interview later.

Townsend questioned whether the average Carmel citizen wanted further tourism and, also, if the expense to the taxpayers might outweigh the short-term benefits to Carmel's businesses.

The fact is, in 1985, a survey which polled Carmel's registered voters showed the three most "urgent" problems cited by residents to be parking, traffic and tourists, according to Brian Roseth, staff planner.

These people, while possibly the majority, are seldom heard, Townsend said.

"You have to consider the person who does not come to city council meetings and does not call and complain," she said.

Townsend further wondered about the long-term detriments to the city.

"You have to provide services after the tourists leave," she said. "They use water and then we have to clean up after them. You need to stand back and look at this."

Advisory committee wants to study new water sources

By NANCY HILLS

RECOGNIZING THAT the entire peninsula may be facing a water shortage, the technical advisory committee of the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District voted not to increase the total amount of water allocated until an additional supply can be investigated.

The TAC suggested the district investigate wells at Fort Ord and Sand City, in the Seaside aquifer, as an alternative means of water. It also voted to recognize that the original allocation base used was at least 8 percent low and listened to a presentation from Carmel representative Alan Williams on errors in the allocation system. During the meeting, Carmel Staff Planner Brian Roseth told the district Carmel needed 304.6 ac. ft. of water to be added to the city's allocation.

The TAC consists of members of the planning departments from the six cities and Monterey County which make up the water district. The TAC makes recommendations to the policy advisory committee, representatives of the jurisdictions' elected bodies, who it turn recommend to the water district board.

Williams also suggested that the Seaside aquifer might be a source of additional water and that the district sink a well for drought reserve there rather than retain 2,000 ac. ft. of unallocated water for that purpose.

In 1981, the district board divided the total "normal rainfall year" supply of 22,000 ac. ft. into 2,000 ac. ft. drought buffer or reserve, 1,400 ac. ft. for emergency nonmetered use and 18,600 ac. ft. between the jurisdictions for their present and future use.

Carmel received 5.542 percent of the 18,600 ac. ft. for its annual use and at its last review, had reached 99.99 percent use. When a jurisdiction's water use exceeds its allocation during the 12-month period between June 30 and July 1, the water district is required to suspend issuance of water meter permits.

Carmel, to avoid the district-imposed moratorium, has approved an urgency ordinance restricting the types of building permits it will issue. (See related story, this issue.)

Though members discussed the possibility of drilling a new well in Seaside for additional water, Bruce Buel, water district manager, maintained that drilling a new well would require an environmental impact report (EIR) and $500,000 in research. Those figures come from a report by Converse Consultants, an engineering firm in San Francisco.

Furthermore, the district's enabling legislation requires a public vote of any expansion of the water supply, Buel said.

He added that the district was spending most of its time, energy and funds to finish the EIR on the proposed San Clemente dam, due for a vote in 1988, as the main additional water supply project. The dam would not be completed until 1993.

"I hate to say it, but we are like any other agency and only have so much time and money," Buel told the TAC.

Williams, using a 1982 U.S. Geological Survey of the Seaside aquifer, said he felt the district could allow 9,000 ac. ft. to be pumped from that source rather than the 4,000 ac. ft. it allows now.

However, Darby Fuerst, district project manager, explained to Williams that the Seaside groundwater supply was scattered and test wells would have to be drilled to know where the water is. It also would take about a 1,000 ft. well, he added.

MEMBERS OF the TAC, expressing concern all the jurisdictions would use up their allocations before the dam was built in 1993, requested that the district board consider investigating a supplemental supply of water to tide them over. But since there were so many environmental and fiscal questions, they did not want to increase the water supply or change the allocation until a study is done.

When Williams suggested that Carmel might "borrow" the 304 ac. ft. from another jurisdiction's unused portion, one member of the TAC said, "We're afraid you might not be able to give it back."

Buel admitted that the district recognized that the "existing use" figures used when the allocation was originally devised was 8 percent too low, but that it did not make any difference.

The allocation was derived by adding existing use and future use of each jurisdiction then determining the percentage of water they needed in the year 2000. Because every jurisdiction's existing use would rise by 8 percent, the percentages would stay the same, Buel said.

Carmel Planning Director Diane White pointed out that Carmel was particularly vulnerable to a rise in existing use since remodels and expansions are where Carmel's greatest percentage of growth is located.

Back to School night at CHS is Sept. 30

CARMEL HIGH School will hold a "Back to School Night" Sept. 30 in which parents will be going to "school" for the night.

The event will take place at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 30 in the CHS gymnasium.

The program will begin with a general meeting, which will include introduction of the school's administration. Following that parents will receive a copy of their students schedule and will go to each of their student's classes for a brief discussion of the curriculum.

Parents will be able to get acquainted with their students' teachers and course of instruction.

Doris Uyeda is chairman of the event; she will be assisted by members of the Padre Parent Club.

City extends building ban for 65 days this time

audience that she believed it was important for people not to forget that Carmel was "in this dilemma due to decisions made by the water management district." Laiolo's comment was in response to a statement by Wright that he thought the water district would not change the allocation in 65 days.

Larry Foy, vice-president and general manager of Cal-Am, she added, has said he believes the company could pump much more water than the district allocated for use by the jurisdictions in its boundaries.

The district allocated 18,600 ac. ft. for use by peninsula cities and portions of Monterey County, of which Carmel was allotted 5,542 percent of that total for the city's use. Foy has stated he feels Cal-Am could pump 22,000 ac. ft. and "not endanger the health and safety of the peninsula," Laiolo said.

(The district, using the 22,000 ac. ft. as their base, did not distribute 2,000 ac. ft., using that as a drought reserve, and allotted 1,400 ac. ft. for emergency use.)

Laiolo added she believed the allocation process was deficient in its growth projection information when the allocation was done. That was the position Carmel took when it requested an increase in its allocation.

Carmel builder Alan Williams, who represented the city during the Sept. 8 water board meeting, told the council that the city was having to take these measures because of assumptions made by the water district.

Williams said there is no shortage of water right now, that in fact, this has been a "wet year." Even without pumping 22,000 ac. ft., Williams said, approximately 1,400 ac. ft. of the 18,600 ac. ft. the water district allocated is not being used.

The 1,400 ac. ft. Williams was referring to is a part of the unused portion allocated to other cities and Monterey County.

ments, a mixed group of speakers including architects, attorneys, builders and residents addressed the meeting, either requesting exemptions for specific projects or the water situation in general.

Architect MacKenzie Patterson told the council he has been "living with water-saving devices for a number of years — including one and a half gallon flush toilets." He advocated any time a business license is renewed or building permit is issued, the applicant should be required to retrofit to ultra-low flow fixtures.

Property owner Frank Perry told the council that he felt that water supply was the "job of the water management district" and that "they are not doing their job." Perry also requested that the city do what the county had done and protect the lots of record in Carmel.

Attorneys Jim Heisinger and George Brehmer asked the council to allow the staff to continue to develop specific plans for the R-4 district and Louise Bennett property, a request the council granted.

"We'd like to do this in a positive manner, and help people who have been waiting a long time to do business," Laiolo said, adding there have been some who have waited for quite some time to have their applications acted upon.

Bloodmobile drawing to be held Sept. 25

THE CARMEL Chapter of the American Red Cross will hold a bloodmobile drawing in Pebble Beach on Sept. 25.

The bloodmobile will be held from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 25 at the Pebble Beach Council Room at the Lodge at Pebble Beach.

For more information call Phil Gray at 624-6921.

Native award

The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District awarded the Lester Rowntree Arboretum on Hatton Canyon Road a difficult to obtain species of the Fremontodendron California Glory plant. The award was to honor the arboretum's work in promoting the use of drought-tolerant native plants and remind people that fall is the time to plant. (From left), Joe Figueiras, Carmel Forestry Department; Harriette Rowntree, chairperson of the Lester Rowntree Arboretum; Dick Heuer, water district chairman. The arboretum was established behind Flanders Mansion as a cooperative effort between the Native Plant Society and the City of Carmel to encourage people to use native plants in their landscaping. Residents are invited to wander through the garden and enjoy the solitude. (Nancy Hills photo.)

A $16,000 increase

County renews five-year contract with library

By DAVID LELAND

AFICIONADOS OF the Harrison Memorial Library breathed a sigh of relief last week as the library board renewed its contract with the county for another five years of funding.

With the extension of the contract, library officials anticipate a boost of more than $16,000 in funding for the 1986-87 fiscal year, said Stephanie Pearce, senior library assistant.

Pearce said this is partly due to the sophisticated, computer-kept records of borrowers from outside the one-mile square Carmel city limits.

The basis for county reimbursement to libraries is set by the number of residents living outside of city limits, within the county.

In previous years records were kept by hand, which were less accurate and did not show the increase in county borrowers, Pearce said.

This year's funding is budgeted at $112,158, while last year the library received about $96,000 from the county.

The Harrison Memorial Library also receives funding from the state. This year Pearce said the library will get about $36,000 from the state's coffers to help with its operating expenses.

The book budget alone for the library is about $86,000 for each three years, Pearce said.

The only additional sources of revenue for the library are fines and use of the copy machine, said Jack Billwiller, library board president. "Those would keep us going for a very short week," he said.

The only expense incurred by the city of Carmel in operating the library is the salaries of staff. About one year ago library workers, after a long fight with the city, became city employees and thus were entitled to benefits. The city's budget shows $391,771 allotted for salaries and benefits to library employees for 1986-87.

FUNDING FOR the county's library system took an about-face five years ago when the method of funding changed from a percentage of circulation base to a set yearly allotment based on the number of county "non-residents" borrowing from branch libraries.

Pearce said the library fared well under the previous plan, with as many as 50 percent of its patrons coming from outside the city limits. For example, in 1981-82, the library received $160,000 from the county.

The only libraries affected by this method of funding in Monterey County are Carmel, Monterey, Pacific Grove and Salinas. Other libraries are branches of the main county library.

There was some recent concern among library board members that perhaps the county would decide not to renew the five-year agreement with the Harrison Memorial Library. But apparently those fears were unfounded.

"There was a great sight of relief when the county signed," Pearce said.

While Billwiller said Carmel's by-laws say it must support a library, without the recent renewal with the county library, services would have been cut back.

"It would be greatly reduced," he said. "Probably shorter hours and reduced staff."

But all this becomes moot with the recent signing. "This is the best available agreement for us for the next few years," Billwiller said.

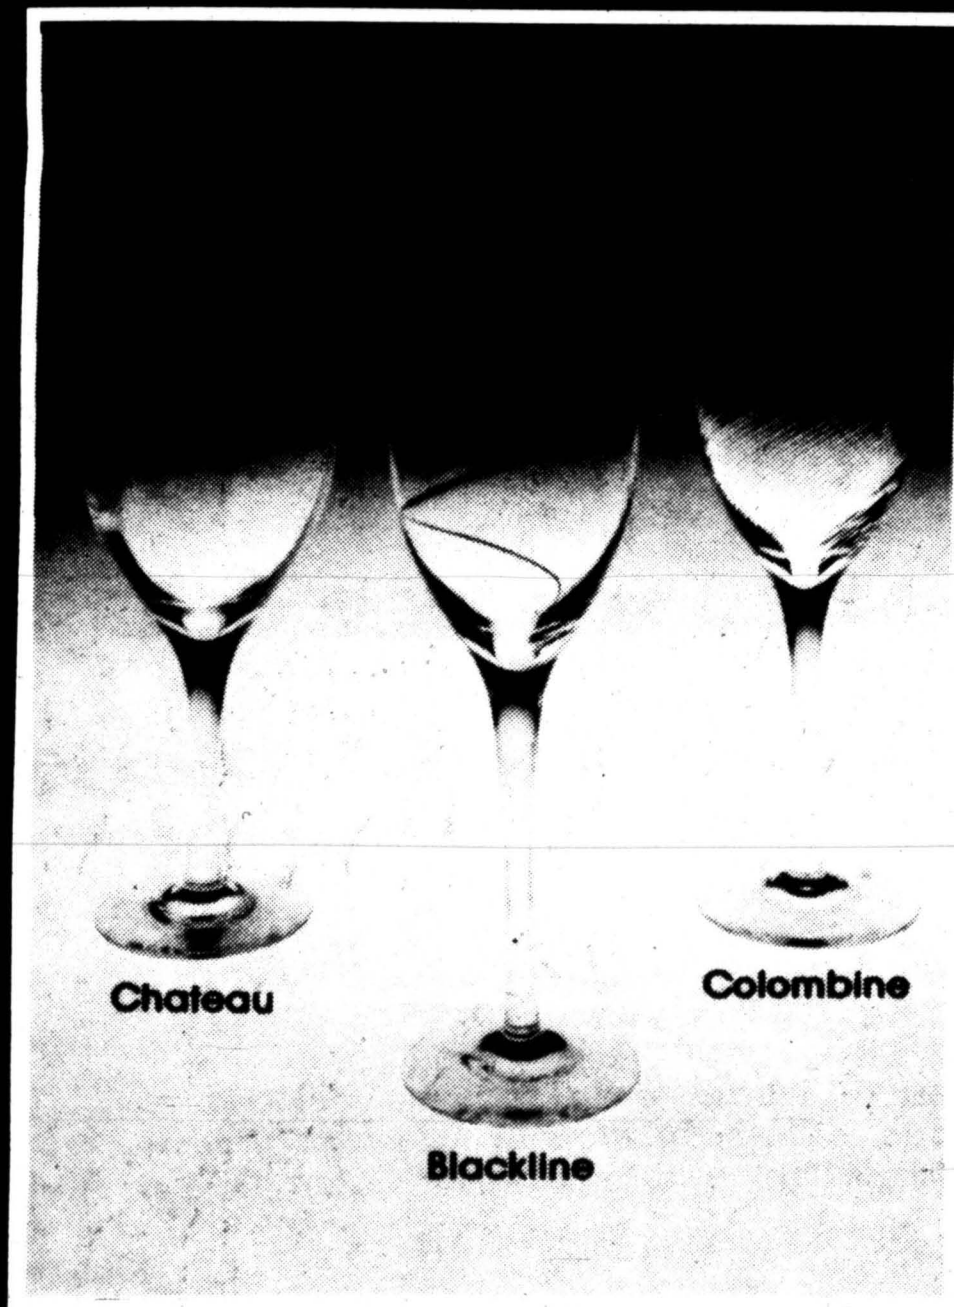

WITH THE renewal of its five-year contract with the county, the Harrison Memorial Library will gain an additional $16,000 for its budget for the 1986-87 fiscal year.

BARBARA RUGG has been working at the circulation desk in the Harrison Memorial Library for the past 13 years. When she retires Sept. 30 Carmel residents will miss not only Rugg, but her cuddly friend "Pickles," who keeps an eye on library patrons. (Dave Leland photo.)

She can't 'bear' to leave, but she won't be alone

By DAVID LELAND

BARBARA RUGG'S 13 years as a librarian at the Harrison Memorial Library become apparent when she speaks in her quiet, occupational voice, which drops to an even softer tone when she is trying to convey a strong point.

When Rugg retires on Tuesday, Sept. 30, Carmel will lose a familiar face at the circulation desk and on city streets — Rugg offers an interesting sight as she tools through town in her blue Volvo station wagon with five stuffed teddy bears in back.

"They're in a box pretending they are in a boat," she said, while smiling.

Caring for her collection of 186 teddy bears, the oldest dating back to 1905 (her mother's), will occupy part of her time when she retires to Carmel Valley.

Rugg keeps one small cuddly pal named "Pickle" at the circulation desk in the library, which she places on the counter from time to time so the bear can have a better view of his surroundings.

But the majority of each day after retirement will be spent coddling her new grandson, Nicholas Allen Nassetta, who lives next door with Rugg's daughter Valerie. Another daughter, Victoria, also lives nearby.

The decision to retire came last year after a small inheritance enabled Rugg to become somewhat self-sufficient. It was also time to move on to another phase of her life.

"A 40-hour week is more than I can hack," said the 66-year-old Rugg. "It takes one of my days off to recuperate."

Now her days will be filled with enjoyable pastimes like drawing pictures of her bears.

"I do it 'cause they're fun," she said. Rugg added that her all-time favorite book is Winnie-The-Pooh, the story of a bear's comical adventures and misfortune of having an insatiable appetite for honey.

While her years at the Harrison Memorial Library are filled with many fond memories, Rugg said it will be the daily contact with residents she will miss most. When she is checking out patron's books, she has a habit of calling them "luv."

"I'll miss the people so much," she said. "There are so many people I adore in Carmel."

But immediately after saying this Rugg perked up when she remembered she can visit Carmel "without having to worry if her lunch break is over."

Indeed, now Rugg can relax and enjoy the town that she has given so much to in the last 13 years.

Library offers orientation programs

THE HARRISON Memorial Library will offer orientation programs for all peninsula middle and high school students every Wednesday and Thursday evening through Oct. 23.

The programs, "Everything You Wanted to Know About Libraries, But Were Afraid to Ask," will be held Wednesday and Thursdays at 7 p.m. at the library.

Programs will consist of tours conducted by the head of the Reference Department and head of the Young Adult Services Department and will include discussions of all aspects of the library in order to assist students in doing homework and special assignments.

The programs will run about one hour and are free.

For reservations or questions call Rosalie or Tam at the library, 624-4629.

Will new toilets mean sweet smell of success?

By NANCY HILLS

CARMEL IS fast becoming a town where people tell each other "I know more about toilets than I ever wanted to know."

With Carmel exceeding 99 percent of its water allocation, toilets have become a major topic of conversation, and it's a hard heart that hasn't contemplated — at least once — the consequences before pressing that flushing handle.

One of the big questions on everyone's mind is will ultra-low flow toilets make the city so unpleasant in the olfactory sense that not only will the tourist population leave but the residents be envious of their flight? Or, to be blunt, will the one-and-a-half-gallon flushers reduce the amount of water in the pipes so much that the sewers will begin to smell — or the toilets themselves?

Absolutely not, says Tim Meroney, Carmel building official.

"There's a lot more water in the sewers to move solid waste along than toilet water," said Meroney. Just from a private household, there's water from kitchen sinks, washing machines, showers, bathtubs and other assorted appliances. In fact, he added, too much water is a problem much of time for sewage systems.

The city has purchased 120 ultra-low flow IFO Cascade toilets to sell at cost to residents and businesses alike in Carmel. The toilets sell for a total price of $129.83, which includes seats and lids, Meroney said. It had been previously reported in The Pine Cone that the toilets were sans seats. The toilets can be ordered through the city or purchased on site in the lumberyard on the corner of Junipero and Fourth avenues from 1:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

As for the toilets themselves giving off an odor — never, Meroney stated. They have the same type of odorproof trap as the 5 to 7-gallon fixtures. "These (ultra-low flow) toilets had to pass inspection of the California State Department of Housing and all the tests other toilets have to pass," he said. "These are proven products." Thousands of them have been installed all over the state, he added.

Furthermore, Meroney said the inspection the city conducts after the installation is to insure everything is working properly.

What is different about ultra-low flow toilets is the shape of the bowl and the pressure of the water descending from the tank. The ultra-low flow bowl concentrates the direction of the water so the waste is pushed out rather than pulled out as in low-flow or regular toilets.

In fact, an article in the August issue of Rodale's New Shelter magazine rated most of the ultra-low flow toilets excellent — a higher rating than most of the low-flow toilets. Many people believe the low-flow and ultra-low flow toilets work on the same principle, but the ultra-low flow technology is designed to use less water. The IFO Cascade was rated excellent in the magazine.

Assemblyman Farr to hold town hall meeting in Carmel

ASSEMBLYMAN SAM Farr, a Carmel native, will be holding a series of town hall meetings on the peninsula, including one in Carmel Sept. 29.

Farr will hold his Carmel meeting from 7-9:30 p.m. Monday, Sept. 29 at the Sunset Center's Bingham Room.

Other meetings on the peninsula are slated for Pacific Grove, Seaside and Monterey.

Farr will begin the meeting with brief remarks on the 1985-86 legislative session, and then will open the meeting to comments, questions and discussion of issues of importance to the public.

"The purpose of the town hall meetings is to provide an opportunity for the people of my Monterey/Santa Cruz district to have direct contact with the person who represents them in the California Legislature," Farr said.

Farr, who has represented the 28th District since 1980, will hold 14 such meetings in the district.

ASSEMBLYMAN SAM Farr will hold a town hall meeting 7-9:30 p.m. Monday, Sept. 29 at Sunset Center in Carmel.

CUSD gets countywide drug program in gear

By DAVID LELAND

AFTER IMPLEMENTING its own drug and alcohol programs for the past few years, the Carmel Unified School District will soon be joining forces with a county-run drug program in an effort to keep substance abuse education consistent between the area's districts.

"Here's Looking At You, Two," a county-financed program, has been offered to CUSD for the past two years, but previous school administrators declined involvement. In the past year 7,262 students have been part of the program countywide, but none from the CUSD. The district instead has opted for successful in-house programs such as Peer Counseling and Safe Rides, programs which include one student helping another with teacher assistance.

"Here's Looking At You, Two" seeks to make a uniform attempt at educating children from kindergarten through 12th grade, according to Bill L'Heureux, county drug program administrator.

"If a student moves to Carmel from Salinas, they will be offered the same curriculum about drug and alcohol," L'Heureux said. Currently the program is being offered nationwide and in several foreign countries.

At its Sept. 2 meeting the city council also expressed support for the program, which teaches children preventative measures in coping with the dangers of drugs.

L'Heureux believes the implementation of a constant program within the community provides a clear focus.

"We need to make drug use intolerable in our community," he said. "Once you make that statement, you take action."

"Here's Looking At You, Two," is already being utilized in peninsula schools. For the 1985-86 school year 1,289 students were taught the course in nearby Pacific Grove and Monterey school districts. CUSD was only one of seven of the 29 county districts not involved in the program the past two years. The other six districts were in the Salinas-King City area.

Carmel currently has four teachers trained to instruct the "Here's Looking At You, Two" curriculum, but that number will increase as the program is phased into the CUSD system.

According to Dr. Terri Debarros, who works closely with the Peer Counseling program at Carmel High School, there was little interest by Carmel's teachers when they were given a presentation of the program by the county last year by Dolores Nielsen, health education coordinator.

THIS WEEK youngsters at Carmel River School became the first students in the Carmel Unified School District to be exposed to the county's "Here's Looking At You, Two" drug and alcohol awareness program.

"A program without motivated teachers does no good," she said. For this reason Debarros did not endorse the plan, but now she has changed her tune.

"I would like to see it happen," she said. "In the beginning I wasn't supporting it, there was a lot of denial."

Denial appears to be the culprit in the lack of action, but, according to Lt. Don Fuselier, Carmel Police Department, the ostrich approach just won't work.

"If any community is honest with themselves they will admit there is a drug problem," he said.

THE UNIQUENESS of the "Here's Looking At You, Two" approach to drug use by children lies in its primary purpose: prevention.

Instead of waiting until there is already a problem with the youth, substance instruction begins in kindergarten and continues, in varying levels of complexity, until graduation from high school.

aware (of drugs) the better," she said. It should be noted that there is no cost to the schools in utilizing the county program. L'Heureux said the county has about $834,000 in funds to keep the program afloat.

The "Here's Looking At You, Two" program has four major components: current information about alcohol and drug dependency; self-concept; decision-making skills; and coping skills.

Each year's curriculum comes in a "tub," which contains materials used for instruction, such as films, film strips, puzzles and books.

But there is more to teaching the course than simply opening the "tub" and beginning instruction. Before CSUD teachers can begin they must undergo a 15-hour indoctrination into the program. The county has a pool of 30 "trainers" qualified for this task.

"They (teachers) learn about drug and alcohol intervention," L'Heureux said. "They learn why kids turn to drugs. When they leave the classroom they have a good idea what drugs are about such as its symptoms and behavioral aspects."

One Carmel teacher, John Waldron, at Carmel Middle School, has already utilized portions of his training in health classes last year. "I found it to be quite effective," he said.

READERS SHOULDN'T, however, be given the impression that drug and alcohol education has been absent from Carmel's schools. In fact, in some ways current programs have become innovators in the field.

Six years ago Debarros began the Peer Counseling Program, which trains students attending Carmel High School to work with troubled students at Carmel Middle School, counsel other high school students and offer "alternative parties" (alcohol and drug-free).

This year 58 students have signed up for the 7 a.m. class in which they are trained in

Eastwood throws his weight around for CYC

By DAVID LELAND

MOST ACTIVITIES and projects at the Carmel Youth Center resemble an Andy Hardy movie from the 1940s. No matter how big the dream or how impossible the desire, somehow plans are miraculously accomplished.

The latest episode has Mayor Clint Eastwood taking an area, currently used for storage, and transforming it into a weight room and aerobic workout spot for the youth center.

Eastwood is financing the project, which, when finished, will have universal weights, Nautilus equipment and a shower area for both Carmel's youth and fire and police departments to keep in shape.

"This way we can give responsible role models to Carmel's youth," said Jeff Bell, acting recreation director.

The architectural planning is being donated by Alan Williams, with the the Navy's SeaBees offering to donate its crew for construction.

The only problem with the Navy crew is it can only work weekends. Bell has expressed concerns that the construction, with this method, could be drawn out indefinitely.

Eastwood, however, said not to worry. If negotiations cannot be worked out with the SeaBees, an "alternate group" will be contracted to do the construction.

Money, he said, will not be a factor in completing the necessary work. "We will do whatever it takes," he said.

Currently, the project is still in the planning stages, having not even reached William's drawing board yet. First, Williams said, the recreation committee must prioritize its needs for the area slated for the weight room.

One problem being mentioned is where to load the "Bing Mobiles" with concession items if the weight room is constructed. The door which the vans currently back up to are scheduled to be removed and replaced with sliding doors which will lead to an outside workout area. The committee is expected to present its findings to Williams later in the week.

But one can be sure that the plan will be nudged along by Eastwood's influence. When asked when he hoped the weight room would be completed he laughingly responded, "yesterday."

Williams is also donating his time helping the recreation committee utilize the $50,000 donation it received last week from the Monterey Golf Foundation, of which Eastwood is a member.

This money is slated for "capital" expenditures such as a leaky roof and kitchen repairs, Bell said.

EASTWOOD'S INTEREST in the youth

Carmel's youth has been given the short end of the stick in recent years.

"I kept going up to the youth center, even before the election, and saw the place was run down," he said. "It also had low attendance and not much enthusiasm."

This has changed under Eastwood, who has offered continued support to the ideology of the recreation committee, which is composed of adults who used the youth center in years past, when it was a hub for Carmel's youth.

"Carmel may have less kids per capita (than other cities), but that's no excuse," Eastwood said. "You have to have activities so the kids grow up properly."

Two weeks ago, Eastwood donated a number of Atari video games to the youth center. These, he said, were formerly owned by Warner Bros. and had been given to him for his children to play with.

"They (the games) don't have many hours on them," he said. "My kids are in school, so I thought I would take them up there (youth center) and drop them off. I figured the kids would get a kick out of it."

This is exactly what happened, Bell said. Membership at the youth center, which stands between 170 and 190 youths, has increased about "40 percent" in the past two weeks.

Meanwhile, the city's search for a full-time recreation director, a post which has been vacant for 20 years, has reached stage two in the application process.

More than 90 applications were received for the post, with a salary range between $2,306 to $2,903 a month, according to Jerry teaching, interviewing and counseling skills. Also, through Debarros, Safe Rides was implemented. Safe Rides, whose base is located at Community Hospital, networks students peninsula-wide in helping each other provide safe, sober rides home from dates or other activities from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. on Friday and Saturday.

Within the schools, however, drug and alcohol education appears to have been addressed in an after-the-fact fashion.

It is assumed there is already a problem, so administrators have simply attempted to drive it off campus. This can be seen by Carmel Middle School's policy of reporting any drug or alcohol offenders to the sheriff's department.

Admittedly, said Karl Pallastrini, Carmel Middle School principal, this action has only driven the problem from the school grounds and into the community.

Even the drug and alcohol classes taught at Carmel Middle and Carmel High schools have taken on the flavor that punishment may deter drug use, said Fuselier, who has made several presentations to the students.

"Having the police there is the wrong approach," he said. "Scare tactics are not as effective as talking physiologically."

Fuselier believes that now is the time to educate youngsters to the dangers of taking drugs and alcohol.

"I'm always amazed at the sophistication and knowledge of our kids (about drugs)," he said. "That seems pretty uniform."

Pullen, city personnel officer. These applications have been narrowed down to a field of 13.

While Pullen said Carmel received applications from all over the United States, the final 13 applicants hail from California, Washington and Oregon.

Pullen said the interviews are scheduled for Oct. 3 and 4, with the city "hopefully filling the position by Oct. 15."

Pullen said he was surprised by the number of qualified applications received due to the stringent requirements set by the city.

"We want someone with previous recreation experience, experience in setting up a program from the ground up, plus working with a government agency," he said.

Applicants pay their own expenses for the initial interview, but will receive some compensation for relocating in Carmel, Pullen said.

After a final applicant has been selected, Pullen said, an extensive background check will be undertaken.

"We want to make sure there are no skeletons in the closet," he said.

After all of the data has been compiled on the final applicant, it will be forwarded to Doug Schmitz, city administrator, who will make the final decision.

Also, Jeanne Brehmer, city clerk, said that there have been "lots of inquiries" and three applications submitted for the proposed recreation committee.

An Open Letter to the Customers of Crocker Bank:

COUNTY BANK AND TRUST

STRENGTH · RELIABILITY · SERVICE
SINCE 1870

Dear Neighbor:

Recently, you were notified by Wells Fargo that "some (Crocker) offices should be closed and the accounts moved to other locations."

Unfortunately for Crocker customers, one of these locations is in Carmel-by-the-Sea at Mission and Sixth Streets.

If you feel that now might be the time to switch to a locally-managed bank that has served the Monterey Bay area for over a century, we invite you to visit with us at our Carmel or Carmel Rancho office.

You'll find County Bank and Trust a refreshing alternative to your present situation. Plus we offer . . .

- No long waiting lines.
- Separate Merchant facilities.
- 24-hour CB Key Self Service Bankers.
- Personal and individual service from local people who really care about Carmel.

If you're tired of long lines in big banks you didn't choose, give County Bank and Trust a chance. We're big enough to safely serve your financial needs, but as a local bank, small enough to provide the customer service you deserve.

Sincerely,

Pat DeMoro

'Ash Kickers' support group formed

A new support group for people who have stopped smoking and who want to stay away from cigarettes has been formed at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula.

"Ash Kickers," which is patterned after Alcoholics Anonymous, will have its first meeting 7 to 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 1 in Classroom II at Community Hospital. The group will meet the first and third Wednesdays of each month.

Non-smokers who attend the meetings are eligible for prizes the first three months. For more information, call 624-5311, ext. 1018.

Blind center plans open house

All are invited to attend the Blind Service Center open house, 1 to 4 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 27 at 225 Laurel Ave. in Pacific Grove.

Displays will be presented of aids for the blind, games and appliances, as well as demonstrations of the special equipment in the library and resource room. A slide show will be screened every hour on the hour.

Slated to be honored Saturday will be the local Lions Clubs who have recently renovated the building. Refreshments will be served.

Addiction intervention workshop set

Family and friends of someone with a drug or alcohol problem can help the addicted person to recovery through a professionally arranged intervention.

A free workshop to explain how those who care can confront the alcoholic or addict in a loving way will be conducted 1 to 2:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 30 at the Community Hospital Recovery Center, 576 Hartnell St., Monterey.

All interventions at the recovery center are offered as a free public service. For more information, call 373-0924.

Children's story times resume

The Seaside Branch Library will be offering a new series of story time programs Wednesdays through Dec. 10. "Lap Time" for children ages 2 to 4 will be offered at 10 a.m. "Pre-school Story Time" for children 3 to 5-years-old is scheduled at 10:30 a.m.

These programs will serve as an introduction to the library and the world of stories, books, finger plays, puppets and songs. Children may be registered for either of these programs at the beginning of story time. For further information, call 899-2055.

BUSINESS BEAT BY NANCY HILLS

Short and harried

WELL, the old Biz Beat is pretty short this week. What with the "please talk to me next week" requests and the use permit moratorium due to the water allocation (no, I absolutely refuse to explain that here — read the rest of the paper), things are a little slow. And I'm water-logged. And harried.

So here are a couple of press releases of goings-on around town...catch me next week. Not my favorite way to do Biz Beat, but sometimes that's the way it goes.

LA REINA CHANGES

"Myron and Gerry McFarland, fourth generation California grape-growers, have sold their interest in the La Reina Winery to their partners Charles and Sandra Chrietberg of Houston and Carmel.

Chrietberg, a former mortgage broker from Houston, serves on the board of directors of Monterey County Bank and is the major shareholder.

The Chrietbergs signed an agreement Sept. 12 to purchase the McFarland-owned Monterey County wine label. The sale price was not disclosed. The McFarlands will retain close ties with La Reina, continuing to supply premium grapes from their vineyards in Monterey County. Award-winning winemaker Brian Pendleton remains, while Charles Chrietberg Jr. will direct the marketing operations.

La Reina's first release, a 1984 Chardonnay, won a gold medal and awards from several prestigious wine judgments in the United States; among them the California State Fair and the International Wine Review. A reserve bottling of the 1984 vintage is currently scheduled for release early next year. Plans call for production of 6,000 cases of the 1986 vintage.

"Our primary objective will be to produce a great California Chardonnay, making only barrel fermented Chardonnay from Monterey County," said Chrietberg.

CARMEL INNS AAA

Two Carmel inns recently received word from the California State Automobile Association that their ratings will go from two-diamond to three-diamond status. This means that the properties significantly exceed requirements in many physical and operational categories.

The Svenggaard Inn on San Carlos and Fourth and The Candle Light Inn on San Carlos and Fifth are both operated by Inns by the Sea, a management corporation which also operates three other inns in Carmel, two in Monterey and two in Cambria near San Simeon.

Inns By The Sea underwent a major management change last April, and since then has spent in excess of $1.5 million on replacements and refurbishing of its Monterey Peninsula properties.

CBA MEETING

The Carmel Business Association will hold its monthly meeting 8 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 2 at La Playa Hotel. The guest speaker will be Rev. Paul Woundenberg, former pastor for Church of the Wayfarer in Carmel and now the official chaplain for Robert Louis Stevenson School where he also teaches an ethics class. He is also the master of ceremonies at the annual Concours d'Elegance in Pebble Beach.

Woundenberg will speak on ethics in business. Residents and business persons alike are invited to attend the meeting.

FR. SERRA MEMORIAL CEREMONIES

On Sunday, October second, a beautiful and unique ceremony and celebration will take place at San Carlos Mission of Carmelo, the occasion being the laying of the cornerstone of the old mission quadrangle.

It was hoped to have the ceremony on August 28th, which marked the one hundred and thirty-seventh anniversary of the death of Father Junipero Serra, but the time being too brief to arrange all details the date was made to October second.

MUSEUM TO MISSION

The Munras Memorial Museum at Carmel

Mission Basilica was dedicated yesterday afternoon in ceremonies that included a Mass at 4:00 o'clock followed by a Blessing.

The museum, now open daily, is a gift of Lady Maria Antonia Field in memory of her great-grandfather, Esteban Munras, one of the early Spanish settlers of California. An adjunct to the existing museum at the Basilica, the Munras Memorial Museum is situated on the western side of the Basilica grounds next to the Convent. On exhibition are furnishings of early Spanish California homes, many of them from the Munras home in Monterey.

NEW SUNSET THEATRE NIXED

The issue of whether or not to build a new auditorium for Sunset Center is dead — at least for the present.

At a special meeting of the City Council Tuesday night, the audience were in agreement that Sunset Center's present auditorium was inadequate, but that the proposed 1200-seat auditorium was not suited to Carmel at this time.

The council voted unanimously to receive the Sunset Theatre plan, financed by Merle Strauch, and to draft a letter expressing its sincere thanks for work done on the plan, but to reject the idea in its present form.

STATE MEDIATOR CALLED IN TO BREAK IMPASSE

BETWEEN TEACHERS, DISTRICT

A state mediator has been called into the Carmel Unified School District in an effort to resolve an impasse in contract negotiations between the district and the Association of Carmel Teachers.

Talks between teachers and the district were broken off last week after teachers picketed at district administrative offices near Carmel Middle School.

When an impasse was declared Thursday, the district had offered the teachers a 4.8 percent salary increase, plus 1 percent in fringe benefits, according to Supt. Bill Rand.

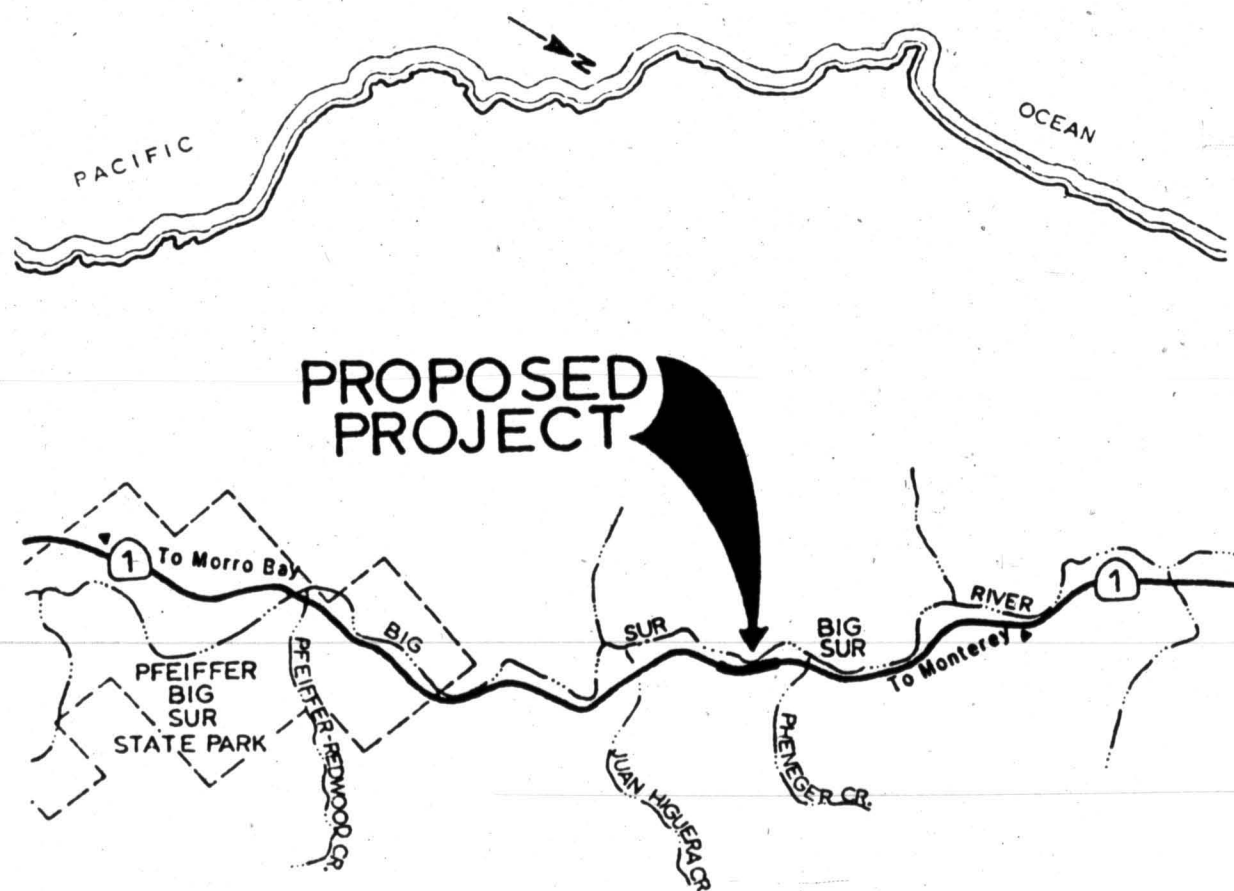

The Association of Carmel Teachers, which had originally requested a total 14 percent salary package for the 1981-82 school year, held firm on a demand for a 5.5 percent salary increase, Rand said.

VENTANA WILDERNESS REPORT

BY GLENN R.
STEWART

THE BALD eagle is a creature that approaches mythical proportions. It was accorded national symbol status by the founding fathers and held in high esteem by North American natives for centuries prior.

Studies of these and other birds along with radio-telemetry data collected on wild bald eagles and the eagle released in Big Sur this past summer contribute both to our understanding of their behavior and hold us in awe of their physical and apparently instinctive abilities.

Consider that young bald eagles may routinely make direct flights of several thousand miles without feeding themselves or having any other birds to follow upon independence from parental care. Information indicating the direction of travel and duration of flight seems to be contained in the birds at birth.

Dr. Grainger Hunt of Biosystems Analysis in Santa Cruz discovered the apparent migrational pattern of young bald eagles from northern California to the salmon runs of southeastern Alaska. It was startling to see that the youngsters soared into a thermal shortly after gaining independence from the family group to head north for a flight of a week or more.

The young eagles do not eat during the flight as far as we know. Five birds have now been followed by Hunt. Three were from different nests but followed approximately the same course. Two others were nestmates. These followed the exact same course except that they embarked on their journey a week apart.

DURING THE past two decades, a European researcher named Eberhard Gwinner conducted investigations that indicate that endogenous rhythms or internal clocks guide the migrational travels of the warblers that he studied. His report in the April issue of Scientific American described the apparent existence of the internal stimuli in detail.

The more than 20 years of research found that the internal guidance system points a direction to individual migrants and instructs them how far to travel.

The force that operates on the species of European warblers studied is likely operating on other species that migrate including the northern California bald eagles under study by Hunt.

Hunt's documentation is not complete and subject to further investigation. The work is extremely labor intensive. Eaglets are radio-tagged while still in the nest with tiny transmitters that emit a directional signal up to 100 miles under perfect conditions.

Hunt stands by to monitor the birds from a nearby campsite. Some four weeks after fledging, they begin their lone and formerly undescribed flight into the north. We guess that they are "genetically programmed" or in possession of an endogenous rhythm that guides them to an abundant food supply that is seasonally available at the Canadian and Alaskan salmon runs. Whatever it is that guides them, Hunt conducts a wild eagle chase from the front seat of his Cessna 172 while tuned in to the beeping signal of the birds he pursues.

Bald eagles have a tremendous capacity for movement as evidenced by another study by Hunt and his associates. He found, again by radio-tagging birds, that juvenile eagles (1 to 4 years of age) routinely travel among several northwestern bald eagle wintering areas. They were found to regularly fly from the Skagit Valley, adjacent to the Puget Sound, to the Klamath Basin to the Shasta Lake area from one week to the next.

We can only guess at the reasons for the various behaviors we discover. Taken together these investigations can help us to better understand the endangered birds that we are attempting to protect from extinction.

I mention all of this because the bald eagle released this past summer at Ventana Wilderness Sanctuary exhibited behavior that paralleled the movements of Grainger Hunt's birds.

THE EAGLE, Miss O'Brien, was hatched from a thin-shelled egg that was collected from a bald eagle nest along the shore of Lake Shasta. Her dispersal flight began in much the same way as the five studied by Hunt. Day one saw her thermal up over Anderson Peak and then wing her way north past the Ventana Cones and Carmel Valley to Mount Toro. The marvel of radio-telemetry allowed me to watch her fly away from me in Big Sur at about 10:30 in the morning and then relocate her at 8 p.m. as she searched for a roost on Mount Toro.

She spent a day near the northern point of the range overlooking the Salinas Valley and then was off to Pacheco Peak near the San Luis Reservoir. A day later we found her in the evening roosting at Mount Hamilton near Livermore. Then it was off and across the Bay Area to the Napa Valley. We saw her a day later resting in an oak tree next to Lake Berryessa. A few hours later, her signal disappeared over the hills toward Clear Lake. Her passage through the rough country to the north prevented us from recording any further data points from the ground or air and we were forced to give up the chase.

In the absence of Hunt's data, we might guess that Miss O'Brien simply did not like her new home in Big Sur. But taken in the context of his work, we might decide that this was appropriate behavior for a bird hatched from a northern California egg. Since Anderson Canyon, Big Sur, is her adopted "natal area" by virtue of the fact that it was the site of her fledging, we can look forward to her return for nesting and permanent residence.

We plan to bring eaglets from nests in Alaska or British Columbia to our Ventana Wilderness Sanctuary release site next summer. This should provide a more sedentary group of birds for release, but we will of course be standing by with the radio receiver and pursuit vehicle warmed up and ready for action.

I may be reached at 429-2466 to discuss this further with interested parties or to offer slide lectures on our work to groups and organizations. We are developing a slide program that takes advantage of sophisticated, dual projection equipment (I would appreciate input from anyone experienced with such a project) that has just been donated to the Sanctuary to help us carry our message of natural heritage stewardship to larger audiences. I hope to have it operational within 60 days.

(Editor's Note: The Ventana Wilderness Report, written by Glenn R. Stewart, executive director of the Ventana Wilderness Sanctuary, will appear in the Pine Cone every fourth Thursday of the month. For more information or for comments or questions, contact the Sanctuary at the above number or P.O. Box 894, Carmel Valley, CA 93924.)

SPIRITS WON'T be the only thing flying as the Carmel Music Society celebrates its 60th anniversary Sept. 27.

Balloons-by-the-Sea will be bringing one of their colorful hot air balloons (weather permitting) starting at 10 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 27 at Carmel High School field to help kick off the society's celebration. The balloons will be raised between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. with weather dictating the exact moment of takeoff. The balloon will be tethered above the field until early afternoon.

On Tuesday, Oct. 7 the society will begin its new season with a gala preceding its opening concert with renowned soprano Leontyne Price. The gala will feature food and refreshments, music by the Robert Louis Stevenson School String Quartet and diamond door prizes. There will also be an after-concert Night Cap in the gala tent at Sunset Center.

Tickets for the gala are $50, with Night Cap tickets going for $10. For reservations call 624-5068.

To continue the season-long celebration the society will also hold a holiday fashion show at La Playa Hotel in December and a '20 costume party in the spring.

ROSEMARY MATSON TO DISCUSS RECENT SOVIET TRIP

Rosemary Matson of Carmel Valley, a founder of Continuing the Peace Dialog and frequent traveler to the Soviet Union, will speak to the Democratic Women's Club of Monterey County at their meeting 3-5 p.m. Thursday, Sept.

25, in the meeting room of the Seaside Library at 550 Harcourt, Seaside.

Matson, who recently returned from another trip to the Soviet Union, will report on her conversations with USSR citizens, and will summarize their concerns and comments after the incident at Chernobyl. Matson also will discuss how Soviet citizens view Premier Gorbachev's first year in office. A question and answer period will follow Matson's talk.

Prior to Matson's presentation, a representative of the Hiroshima Project will describe that group's plans for sending members of Congress to visit Hiroshima, the Japanese city that was atom bombed at the end of World War II.

The meeting is open to the public, and refreshments will be served. For further information, please call Helen Hempel at 659-3690.

SUNSET STAFF TALKS TO AD CLUB

Far from being just another magazine, Sunset attaches particular importance to identifying the needs and trends of its readership.

Toward that goal, the publishers and management of Sunset magazine have instituted an on-going research facility to constantly monitor the changing face of the West's population.

Through its "Western Market Almanac" and live presentations to business groups, Sunset makes available to the public the results of their extensive research.

On Thursday, Oct. 2, the Advertising Club of the Monterey Peninsula will present Carolyn Koskinen and Glenn Chrisman of the San Francisco office of Sunset with the 1986 marketing film "Westerners Talk Back" at the Elks Auditorium, 150 Mar Vista in Monterey.

Cocktails at 11:30 a.m., lunch at noon with the presentation to follow. Ad Club non-members, $10, lunch included. Call 624-8469 for reservations.

DISCOVERY SHOP CELEBRATES SECOND ANNIVERSARY

The American Cancer Society Discovery shop in Pacific Grove celebrated its second anniversary Sept. 15. During the past two years volunteers and the shop manager have operated the shop six days a week selling "gently-used" merchandise. The funds generated by the shop are used to continue the comprehensive cancer control program of the American Cancer Society, which includes approved cancer research, public and professional education and direct services to cancer patients and their families. For more information contact shop manager Joey Cobby at 372-0866.

CVPOA SETS BIG FAMILY PICNIC SEPT. 28

The Carmel Valley Property Owners Association's highlight event of the year, the annual family picnic for members and the public, will be held from 1-4 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 28 at Robles Del Rio Lodge in Carmel Valley.

The day will feature a demonstration by the Carmel Valley Fire Department's "Jaws of Life" safety equipment used to rescue people from automobile accidents and a 15-minute presentation on how the department serves the residents of the Valley.

Gene Erner, president of the CVPOA, will report to members and potential members on current CVPOA programs and committee work.

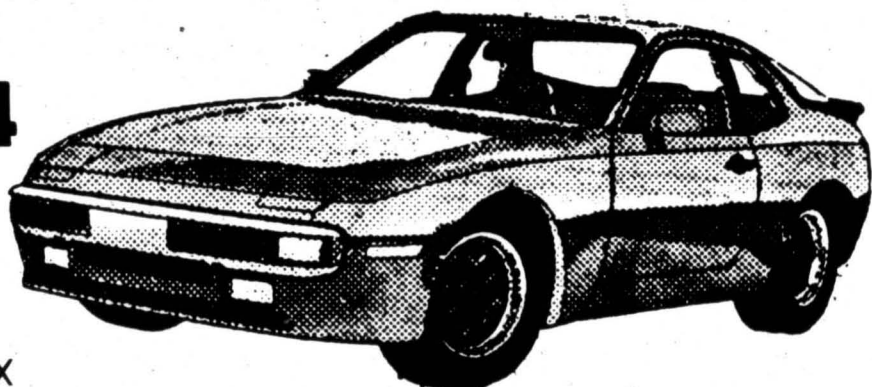

Lunch will consist of barbecued chicken, potato and green salad, garlic bread, desserts and beer, wine and lemonade. The pool will be open for swimming for children and adults.

The type that boasts a big vocabulary.

The XQ-380 typewriter from Sharp Electronics has some impressive features, including an optional built-in dictionary which holds a maximum 64,000 words. To cut down on spelling errors and typos, the XQ-380 puts it all at your fingertips.

The standard features are equally unforgettable and include a 4,000 character memory and a 3-line correction memory. Automatic features such as bold print, centering and underlining make it easy for important texts to stand out. And the XQ-380 can be used as a printer when interfaced with a computer.

The XQ-380's 17" carriage is usually found only on more expensive models. Plus its low profile keyboard allows you to type at the most comfortable angle.

Call us today and you'll agree — when it comes to typewriters, versatile is spelled Sharp.

Clark will be a first-grade teacher at Princeton Elementary School in Willows, where the groom is employed as an agronomist for Interstate Seed Co. He is also a graduate of Cal State Chico. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Stillwell of Yuba City.

Flower girl for the wedding was Karen Marie Clark; maid of honor, Susan Sturges; bridesmaids, Vikki Hamill, Tina Slapkunas, Susan Vose, Debbie Kirk and Toni Brown.

Ring bearer was Casey Stafford; best man Bryan Stafford; and ushers, Mike Harvey, Blaine Lauhon, Mike Brown, Curt Sanders, and Stanley Schmidt.

The couple spent their honeymoon in Cancun, Mexico.

DAR SLOAT CHAPTER CELEBRATES CONSTITUTION

A celebration of the 199th anniversary of the signing of the Constitution of the United States of America was the thrust of the September luncheon meeting of the Commodore Sloat Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

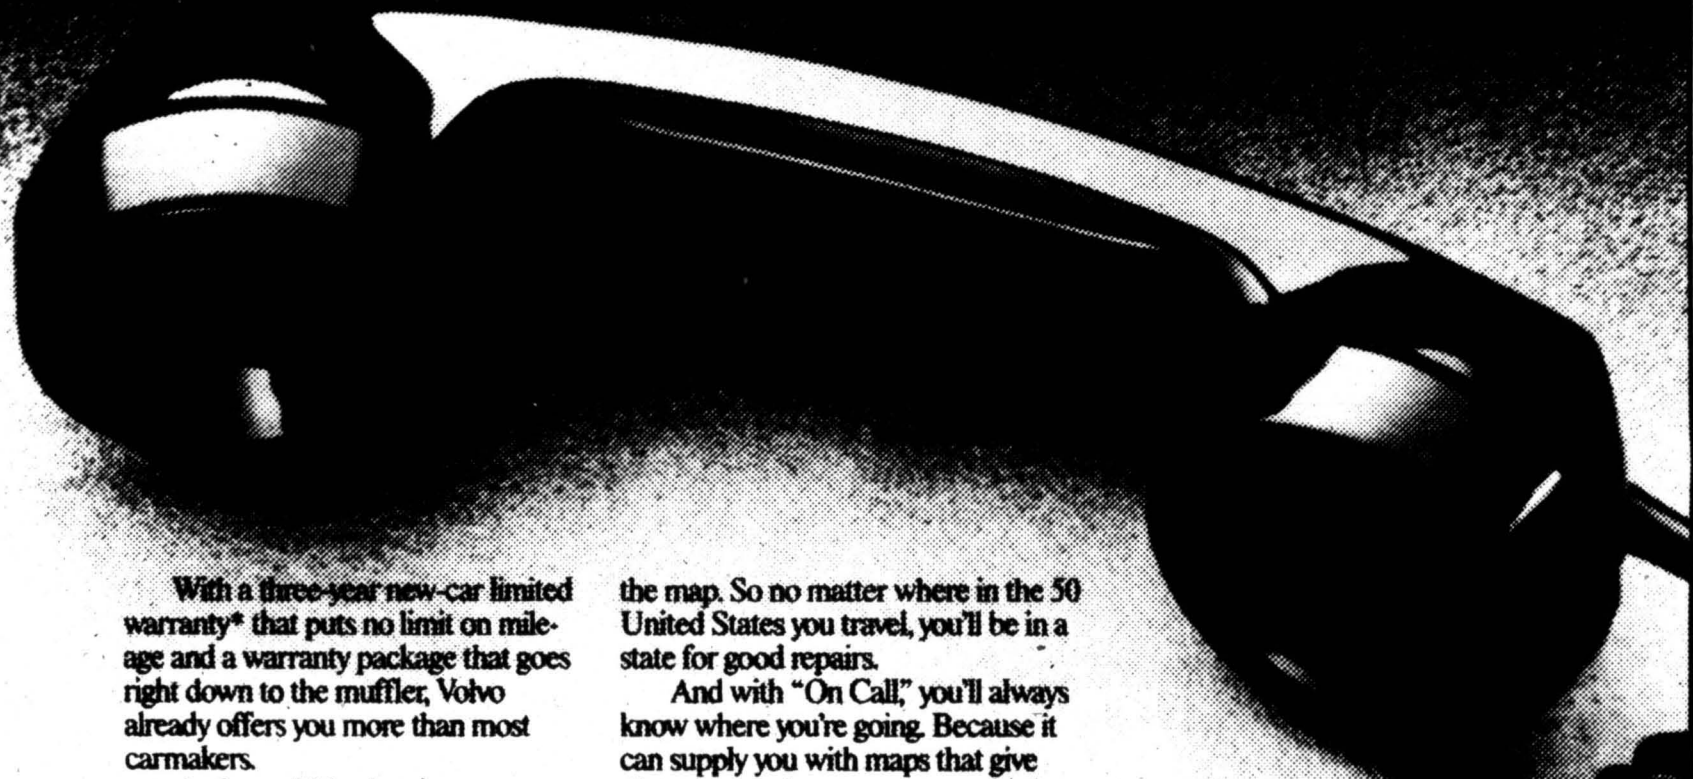

Constitution Week is celebrated annually (Sept. 16-23) nationwide by proclamation of the president. It is a mission of the various chapters of the NSDAR to call attention to this week so that the communities at large may pause to reflect on the responsibility each of us bears to preserve and protect our Constitution.

In this regard, Regent Mrs. William Gooley had asked each of the mayors of the principal cities of the peninsula to prepare appropriate proclamations. The proclamations were on view at the luncheon and the originals were to be placed in the various city libraries, and copies in poster form would be posted at area schools. Present for lunch were Mayor Lancelot McClair of Seaside, Mayor and Mrs. Florus Williams of Pacific Grove and Sue Hutchinson, assistant to Mayor Clint Eastwood of Carmel.

Two guest speakers from Los Altos were introduced by Mrs. Joseph Gorman (chairman of the Bicentennial of the Constitution). The first, Mrs. Barbara Jones, western regional vice president of the Children of the American Revolution, compared the original Articles of Federation and the final Constitution as we now know it. Then CAR member Al Ragonesi, high school senior, recounted his own experience of growth in realization of the privileges of citizenship in our country, as compared to taking it all for granted.

Following the program members took part in a memorial service for eight Commodore Sloat Chapter members who had passed away over the last year. Chapter Chaplain Mrs. J. Gerald Chaney conducted the ceremony.

WITH VOLVO ROADSIDE ASSISTANCE, THIS IS THE ONLY TOOL YOU'LL EVER NEED.

With a three-year new-car limited warranty* that puts no limit on mileage and a warranty package that goes right down to the muffler, Volvo already offers you more than most carmakers.

And now, Volvo has even more to offer. With "On Call"™...perhaps the most comprehensive roadside assistance plan to ever hit the road.

With "On Call," you can change a flat without getting your hands dirty. Boost a battery without opening the hood. Even open a locked door without using your key.

And the only mechanical skill required is dialing our toll-free number. Once you do, help is on the way.

"On Call" 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

"On Call" is more than roadside assistance that's always there; it's the roadside assistance plan that's all over the map. So no matter where in the 50 United States you travel, you'll be in a state for good repairs.

And with "On Call," you'll always know where you're going. Because it can supply you with maps that give direct or scenic routes to your destination. As well as a record book to keep track of your expenses and a journal to keep track of your thoughts.

"On Call" even gets you off the ground.

Whether you're traveling here or abroad, "On Call" can book your flights, hotels and car-rental reservations.

And if you like to travel in groups, "On Call" will offer worldwide vacation tour packages several times a year.

"On Call" fights crime!

If your car is stolen, "On Call" will help you to get it back. By offering a $5,000 reward for information that leads to the arrest and conviction of the person(s) who stole your Volvo.

Of course, there's a price to pay for roadside assistance this comprehensive. But it's only the price of an '86 Volvo.

So see your Volvo dealer today. You'll not only get a car well equipped for the money. You'll get one of the most complete roadside assistance plans ever offered for no money at all.

™ "On Call" is a service mark of Volvo North America Corporation and is offered in cooperation with the Amoco Motor Club. Limitations and restrictions on certain plan benefits may apply. *See dealer for terms and conditions.

CARMEL VOICE

BY SAM SALERNO

What's in a name?

IN TOWN for the Monterey Jazz Festival was Vivian Green, whom we met at a local restaurant. When she told me where she was from I did a double take and surmised she was from some province or town in Mexico but that wasn't to be. Vivian, a jazz buff, comes from Gualala (pronounced wa-la-la), and where is it located? She informs me it is on Coast Highway 1 before you get to Anchor Bay, between Sonoma and Mendocino counties. I thought for sure she was from Mexico. I should have known, having worked in Fort Bragg, which is in Mendocino County. But that's been a long time.

HEEDING MY WORD

Whether it was mental telepathy or some other quirk it worked... Bobby Clampett put four good rounds together in the Milwaukee Open (for the first time this year) and took home a check of $7,200 which might help him to make the top 130. If he doesn't then he'll have to return to qualifying school for next year's tour. He has the tools, but he has to be able to use them under pressure which he hasn't been able to do for a couple of seasons.

GETTING LOST IN TAHITI

Artist Bill Dodge heads for the islands of Tahiti to bask in the sun and to relax after a hectic season in Carmel. He tells me he wants to get away and lose himself in the Tahitian sun and climate and not be bothered by anything or anyone. Now, there's a man who knows how to relax. If more business folk would do the same there would be less coronaries and less sickness. The secret is heed your body's call when it says "that's it, time to get away!"

POLO MATCHES

In town to catch the polo matches at Pebble Beach was Paul Lippman, former part-owner of the Hog's Breath Inn and writer for the San Francisco Examiner. Paul has been involved for years in polo matches and promoting them both here and in the Los Angeles area, at Griffith Park. At the present time, Paul is writing; his agency in Burbank is called Authors and Artists. Paul at one time handled the mike chores for a talk show on KRML which emanated from Pebble Beach during the Crosby golf tournament. He was also on Clint's tennis committee during the Eastwood Tennis Tournament at the Beach and Tennis Club. He still has a host of friends in Carmel and we wish him the best at whatever he seeks.

BEACH COMPLAINTS

Owners around Ocean Avenue near the ocean are complaining and will to Clint and other city officials that the traffic is too unbearable at the bottom of Ocean Avenue. Visitors who insist on sleeping on the beach and making fires are ripping apart fences from the homes in that area and leaving their refuse every Monday morning in the streets or on their property. Eventually, that area will have to be cordoned off and made available only during the daytime hours and at night shut off to all but the folks who live there. Good idea, particularly if you're a property owner. What do you think, Clint?

GOLF CLINIC AT SEASCAPE

Janet Coles from Carmel and a member of the LPGA Tour since 1977 will be featured at "A Day With Janet Coles" clinic to be held Tuesday, Sept. 30 at Aptos Seascape Golf Club in Aptos. The free instructional-type clinic is open to the public at the course where Coles learned to play the game under the watchful eye of the late Fred Wetmore, noted golf teacher. Coles, 32, a member of the Wilson Sporting Goods staff, will conclude the day's activities with an informal question-and-answer session during a luncheon at the Seascape restaurant. The public is invited to attend, with a $6 charge for lunch. Coles captured the Northern California Junior Girls Championship from 1968 through 1971 and this year is having a good one on the LPGA tour. "Janet volunteered to make the guest appearance at our club," said Aptos Seascape head pro Eddie Duino Jr. Nice to return and give something back and show your appreciation, Janet!

IS THE CRITICISM WARRANTED?

John McCarthy in town during one of our golf clinics at Pebble Beach and the subject of Poppy Hills came up and all the hoopla both pro and con discussed and printed by the media. More comment has been made about the treatment of the golfers by the employees than how the course plays, etc. John felt they have some growing pains but that it'll all straighten out soon. The personnel situation has to be scrutinized more closely and more qualified people hired in the various departments. Sure the course is a little young but the NorCal group had to start making payments for the large loan they took out to get the project going. Zoller and company will get it all together, rest assured of that fact. One has to crawl before he walks and Poppy Hills is no different.

NEW OFFICE AT LA JOLLA

Hans Munck, Your Maitre'd, catering and limousines, has opened up an office in La Jolla because of the many requests received by locals who have homes and businesses there. He tells me it's going great and the area is beautiful and much like Carmel. Go get 'em Hans!

See you next week!

While in the oriental mood, stop next door and feast on classic Chinese food at The Mandarin. Dishes from North, East, South, and Central China are featured, with tasty daily specials for lunch, dinner, or to-go.

Cafe Central takes a different and nice approach to dining. Eat a light repast, or a complete dinner at this family restaurant. Create your own omelette, or share-a-meal, be it for breakfast, lunch, or dinner. Another unique place to visit is the new Nino Ferretti Menswear. This just-opened shop specializes in limited edition Italian suits hand-made in silk and silk blends. They also offer custom designs for both men and women.

CARMEL RIVER WATER NEWS

BY HENRIETTA STERN

So, you wanna build a dam?

AS A staff member of the water management district, I often hear the comment, "Why don't you just build the dam?" I sometimes get the impression that the speaker believes "just" building a dam is as easy as ordering one through some engineering catalog. Some people have a simplified view of the necessary steps prior to construction. "You know, have a vote, invest some big bucks, get a few permits and start blasting!" "Easier said than done," is my reply. The purpose of today's column is to explain how we must satisfy several important state and federal laws, and the agencies that enforce them, before the first shovelful of earth is removed. These agencies have the final say on whether or not the new San Clemente Project will proceed, assuming voters approve the project.

ENVIRONMENTAL LEGISLATION

In the past decades, a significant body of legislation has evolved to protect the environment and the public from the detrimental effects of poorly planned or managed projects. On the federal level, we have the Clean Water Act of 1972. Section 404 (b) of this Act basically states that a permit from the Army Corps of Engineers is necessary for any construction in a river.

For projects that could have significant environmental effects (like a dam), the corps requires that an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) be prepared. This "statement" is often a mammoth document chock full of information about the area, the proposed project and alternatives, potential impacts of each, and mitigations to offset or compensate unavoidable adverse environmental effects. The National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) governs the EIS process.

WATCHDOG AGENCIES

The corps coordinates with several federal agencies to be sure we comply with other federal laws. These laws include the Coastal Zone Management Act, Endangered Species Act, Fish and Wildlife Coordination Act, National Historic Preservation Act, among others. The watchdog agencies that enforce these laws include the Environmental Protection Agency, the Department of Interior (particularly the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service), and the National Marine Fisheries Service. If reading this list makes you tired, you are beginning to appreciate the amount of effort it takes to bring a project on line!

THERE'S MORE!

A very similar situation exists on the state level. We have the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA), administered by the state Office of Planning and Research, that governs the preparation of an Environmental Impact Report (EIR). The EIR contents will be assessed by the State Water Resources Control Board (SWRCB), which decides whether or not to approve our water right application to store 29,000 ac.-ft. of water behind the new dam. Bear in mind, several environmentally based protests have been filed against our application from California Department of Fish and Game, California Department of Parks and Recreation, Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club and several fishing groups. We are obligated to respond to their concerns and must be able to support any decision regarding the project with solid evidence that can stand up in court.

IT'S THE LAW

The Army Corps of Engineers recently sent public notices to hundreds of agencies and groups informing them about our proposed project. Most respondents urged the corps to deny our permit at this time, pending careful scrutiny of our EIR/EIS. Thus we must convince agencies such as the State Water Resources Control Board and the Army Corps of Engineers that our project is necessary and is the least environmentally damaging alternative that is feasible.

And how do we do that? I'll tell you . . . all those studies! Lots of negotiation, lots of data, lots of paperwork, lots of hard work! And lots of time (and overtime)! It's the law, and we must do our best to follow it.

(Editor's note: The Carmel River Water News is a bi-monthly column written by Monterey Peninsula Water Management District staff. Its purpose is to inform Pine Cone readers about district activities relating to the Carmel River and its environs. For more information or suggested topics, readers are invited to contact Henrietta Stern at 649-4866 or P.O. Box 85, Monterey 93940.)

OBITUARIES

Dorothy deCaillaux

Memorial services took place Sept. 6 in Desert Hot Springs for Dorothy deCaillaux, a former resident of Carmel, who died Aug. 7 in Desert Hot Springs while in the process of moving there from Greenfield. She was 76.

A native of Burbank, she worked as an advertising copywriter for several agencies and traveled to various parts of the world for her occupation. She lived in and around London, England, and before settling at Los Ositos housing project in Greenfield was a resident of Carmel, where she was in motel management.

While in Greenfield, she was secretary for the residents at Los Ositos and was an active parishioner at Holy Trinity Church.

Survivors include a nephew and his wife, Charles and Esther Pierson of Desert Hot Springs. She was preceded in death by her husband, Pierre deCaillaux, in 1971.

Francena H. Hart

Cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea in Pacific Grove for Francena Henderson Hart who died Aug. 30 at her home in Carmel. She was 79.

Born Nov. 9, 1906 in Pasadena, she was a resident of Carmel and Monterey for most of her life. She attended Mills College and Stanford University and was a member of the Self-Realization Fellowship in Carmel.

Survivors include her daughter, Francena Hancock of Carmel, three grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Inurnment was scheduled for a later date at Forest Lawn Cemetery in Glendale.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Colleen Tennison

Funeral services, followed by burial, took place Sept. 5 at the Memory Chapel, Forest Lawn Cemetery, Covina, for Colleen Elizabeth Tennison, a Carmel Resident for the past two years, who died Sept. 2 at her home. She was 77.

Born July 21, 1909 in Caney, Kan., she came to the peninsula from Huntington Beach.

Survivors include two daughters, Margaret Pokrzywinski and Marie Lynn, both of Carmel; two sisters, Veda Hamilton of Anaheim and Bea Smith of Rolla, Mo., and two grandchildren.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of local arrangements.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula.

Robin Fukagawa

Services have taken place in Claremont for Robin Francis Fukagawa, a Carmel native and longtime peninsula resident, who died Aug. 25 at his home in Claremont. He was 25.

Born Dec. 25, 1960, he was a Carmel High School graduate and also lived in Marina. He was a 1982 graduate of Mount San Antonio College in Southern California. He had been a draftsman and designer with Telcom Technologies in Ontario.

Survivors include his parents, Kiyoshi and Beatrice Fukagawa of Oak Hills; a brother, Ron of Claremont; and a niece.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the American Heart Association.

Isabelle M. Russ

Cremation took place at the Monterey City Cemetery for Isabelle M. Russ, a Carmel resident since 1980, who died Aug. 22 at the home of her daughter in Carmel. She was 93.

She was born Dec. 2, 1892 in Olean, New York.

Survivors include two sons, Robert E. Sherman of Orinda and Harry L. Sherman of Hornell, N.Y.; three daughters, Marjorie Hollingsworth of Carmel, Helen Whipple of Columbia, S.C., and Rowena Redd of Winter Park, Fla.; 17 grandchildren; 31 great-grandchildren; and many nieces and nephews.

Inurnment was scheduled to take place at St. Bonaventure Cemetery in Allegheny, N.Y. The Mission Mortuary was in charge of local arrangements.

George H. Lawton

Rosary was recited Aug. 30 at the Carmel Mission Basilica, followed by a Mass of Christian burial, for George H. Lawton of Carmel, who died Aug. 26 at Stanford Medical Center. He was 61.

Born June 3, 1925 in Santa Cruz, he worked for various construction firms over the past 20 years.

He was a volunteer with Meals on Wheels and was a member of the Serrans Club of Monterey.

Survivors include his wife, Doris; a sister, Henlen Henry of Carmel; and an aunt, Iva Kendall of Hawthorne.

The Mission Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Charlotte L. Gibson

CARMEL YOUTH CENTER

BY JEFF BELL

Sorry, no glitz

GLITZ WAS to have been the name of the game Friday, Sept. 27, but the dance at CYC had to be cancelled. That means Matt Arnett will not make the scene with his Nova Beam.

Congrats to Bart Landsman, Robin Marzi, Adam Jaraine, Matt Beys and Chris Pelk who now comprise the Carmel Youth Center Council. Meetings of the youth council are every Tuesday at 4 p.m. I suggest that all interested students attend these meetings!

If you missed your friends on Saturday of last week, you should have looked for them here. Dave and Jim Markowitz were both pounding the walls about the new "Gravitar" game. Seems they had a real time getting into the second galaxy. Lucky for them, Mr. Spock was not here. Brenden Ramsden and Sunny Smith are having a real time on Crystal Castles as well. Looks like Bartholemew Bear is running with five witches on his tail. Poor guy!

On Sept. 26 starting at 7 p.m. until 9 p.m. are the first Carmel Middle School/Carmel Youth Center Ping-Pong championships. Bring your favorite paddle to compete! First prize, $25 cash. Second and third places, $10 each. All the while we will be serving our famous burger for a buck. Come down and check it out. Entries only from Middle School, please.

Dallas and St. Louis battle it out on our big-screen TV as Monday Night Football continues to be a favorite here. All the free popcorn and 35-cent Cokes you can consume! Coach Bell's Fabulous 500 Club starts at 4 p.m. every day for their five-mile run. Great for you skaters who wanted build-up.

Finally, the trivia question of the week — for a free special: "Who was the TV clown who had no voice?"

Until next week, Adios!

Experience the French Collection at the Rodier Paris-Carmel Fall & Winter Fashion Luncheon, Oct. 3 at the Willows Tea Room from 12:00-2:00 and the Fashion Tea from 3:00-5:00. Both menus $12, includes sherry.

graduated from Milwaukee Downer College (now Lawrence University) in Appleton, Wis. A resident of Pebble Beach for the past eight years, she moved to the peninsula from Palos Verdes Estates, where she lived for 16 years, and San Francisco, where she lived for 14 years.

She was a member of the Monterey Peninsula Country Club; the American Association of University Women; and the Carmel Presbyterian Church.

Survivors include her husband, Lyle; a daughter, Martha Holiman of Cupertino; a son, Lay of Tuscon, Ariz.; and four grandchildren.

Cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea, with inurnment scheduled for a later date. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the American Lung Association, 140 Central Ave., Salinas.

Emma V. Richardeau

Memorial services took place Sept. 4 at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea in Pacific Grove for Emma Victorine
Richardeau, a Carmel resident for the past 13 years, who died Aug. 30 at Casa Lasconia, a residential care home in Salinas.

She was born Nov. 27,
1900 in Ahin, Belgium.

Survivors include her daughter, Lisette Silgar of Carmel, and one grandchild.
Her husband, Lucien, died in 1982.

Cremation took place,
followed by scattering of ashes at sea. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Lillah P. James

Cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea,
followed by scattering of ashes at sea, for Lillah Pennington James, who died Sept.
14 at Beverly Manor Convalescent Home. She was 87.

Born Jan. 4, 1899 in Memphis, Tenn., she was a 25-year resident of Carmel, and had been a self-employed interior decorator for 50 years.

Survivors include a sister, Mrs. Coleman Avery of New Orleans, and two nieces.

At her request, no services took place. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the American Heart Association.

Florence L. Smythe

Private cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea, followed by scattering of ashes at sea, for Florence Louise Smythe, a Carmel resident for 40 years, who died Sept. 11 at her home. She was 89.

Born Dec. 13, 1896 in Minneapolis, Minn., she was raised on the prairies of North Dakota and as a child, saw the Chicago-Milwaukee Railroad come through for the first time.

She studied art at the University of Minnesota and taught school for 10 years in Minnesota. Later she received a master's degree at the University of California at Los Angeles and taught art at Long Beach High School.

In 1945, she joined the Corner Cupboard Gift Shop in Carmel as a partner with Marian Adams and remained with the business until 1965.

She was a charter member of the Church of the Wayfarer Guild and was a regular contributor to the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art Festival of Trees at Christmas and created for the museum the miniature Smith Family, which was displayed at Monterey Public Library for six years.

Survivors include her nephews and niece, Dr. John Bond of Minneapolis, and James and Mary Ann Bond of Washington, D.C.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Naomi W. Chace

Memorial services took place Sept. 12 at the Church of the Wayfarer in Carmel for Naomi Wingfield Chace, a Carmel resident for the past
26 years, who died Sept. 9 at Community Hospital. She was 78.

Born Sept. 25, 1907 in Lakeview, Ore., she attended the University of Nevada at Reno, where she was a member of Delta Delta Delta Sorority.

She moved to Carmel from Los Altos in 1960, and was a member of the Church of the Wayfarer and the Carmel Woman's Club.

Survivors include her husband, Alden; a son, Alden Jr. of Monterey; a sister, Ruth Wingfield of Carmel, and three grandchildren.

Private cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea in Pacific Grove, under the direction of the
Paul Mortuary.

The family prefers
memorial contributions to the Carmel Foundation or the donor's favorite charity.

Raymond C. Johnson

Memorial services took place Sept. 15 at the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula for Raymond C. Johnson of Carmel Valley, who died Sept. 12 at his home. He was 83.

Born Oct. 12, 1902 in Los Angeles, he was a hydraulics engineer operating his own deep-well pumping business in the San Joaquin Valley. In 1957, he was involved in a serious automobile accident, which forced his retirement.
He moved to Carmel Valley
14 years ago.

He was a member of the Photography Club of the Monterey Peninsula, the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula and was secretary of the Mercury Class Yacht Racing Association of Monterey.

Survivors include his wife,
Mildred; a daughter, Aelene
Oslin of Carmel; a brother, Clarence of Newberg, Ore., three granddaughters and eight great-grandchildren.

Cremation, followed by scattering of ashes at sea, was under the direction of the California Cremation Society.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula or to a favorite charity.

Safety seats saved lives

Child safety seats are credited with saving the lives of 158 children in 1984, according to a study released by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA).

The NHTSA study, which evaluates Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standard 213, "Child Seating Systems," concludes that correctly used child safety seats are highly effective, reducing the risk of fatality by 71 percent and serious injury by 67 percent. NHTSA's Standard 213 sets minimum performance standards for child car seats, which all seat manufacturers must meet.

Bay symphony unveils second concert season

THE SECOND SEASON of the Monterey Bay Symphony is scheduled to open with a Sunday, Sept. 28 concert at Sunset Theater in Carmel.

"Go for Baroque" is the theme of the two-concert series, one of four organized by the symphony. Robert Martin Kissel, musical director of the Kensington Orchestra, will direct the Monterey Bay Symphony chamber orchestra in a program set to include works of Bach, Gabrieli, Telemann, Pachelbel, Bonelli, Mauret and Vivaldi.

violin and piano studies at age 4. In 1981 she joined the Primary Music School of Shanghai Conservatory and began cello studies and was able to join master classes for Maurice Gendron, Paul Olefsky and Aldo Parisot.

Since 1985 she has studied cello with Irene Sharp at the San Francisco Conservatory. Last fall she soloed with the Palo Alto Chamber Orchestra and played in a master class for Janos Starker. She won this year's San Francisco Symphony/Pepsi Cola Young Artists Competition. In June she participated in the National Cello Congress at Indiana University and was featured in a master class given by Yo-Yo Ma.

In addition to these soloists, violist Jill Cohen will be featured in Telemann's Concerto in G for Viola and Strings. Also scheduled for performance are Canzon Septimi Toni No. 2 by Gabrieli, Toccata "Athalanta" by Bonelli, Kanon by Pachelbel, Sonata pian'e forte by Gabrieli, Rondeau by Mauret, Air on a G String by Bach and Symphony No. 86 by Haydn.

Tickets are $15 to Sunday's concert in Carmel. Admission is free to the Monday concert in Salinas.

The Bay Symphony's second season is scheduled to continue with two concerts in November with conductor Denis De Coteau and pianist Roy Bogas collaborating on Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue."

Broadway show tunes and light opera will be paid tribute during a Jan. 18 concert at Sunset Theater and a Jan. 19 encore at the Hartnell main theater. The series will conclude with "Music of Vienna," presented March 29 and 30 at Sunset Theater and Hartnell.

Season tickets are $50 for the Carmel series and $37.50 for the Salinas series. According to Ron Weitzman, president of the board of the Monterey Bay Symphony, the musicians are donating their services for all subscription concerts to pay off merchant and other debts remaining from last season.

For season tickets or additional information about the new season for the Monterey Bay Symphony, call 394-6351.

CHINESE-BORN cellist Haiye Ni will be featured in the opening concert series of the Monterey Bay Symphony. Haiye studies cello with Irene Sharp at the San Francisco Conservatory and won this year's San Francisco Symphony/Pepsi Cola Young Artists Competition.

RTS & LEISURE

The 8 p.m. concert will be repeated Monday, Sept. 29 in the main theater at Hartnell College, 156 Homestead Ave., Salinas.

Flutist Raymond Fabrizio will be featured during the concerto in D for Flute and Strings by Vivaldi. A former studio musician in Hollywood, Fabrizio has lived in the Monterey Bay area for the past 25 years. He has performed with the San Francisco Symphony, Carmel Bach and Cabrillo Music festivals, and is currently the principal flutist of the Monterey Bay Symphony, the Sunriver Music Festival and Music from Bear Valley.

Fabrizio teaches at Monterey Peninsula College, California State University at Fresno and the University of California at Santa Cruz.

Vivaldi's Concerto in E for Cello and Strings will showcase teenaged cellist Haiye Ni. Ni was born in China in 1972 and started

Purse increase, new setting distinguish Spalding pro-am

MAJOR NAMES and major changes — including a $50,000 increase in the purse — will be highlights of the 15th annual Spalding Invitational Pro-Am which will have a field headed by golf's newest superstar Greg Norman.

Carrying a purse of $250,000, the 72-hole tournament kicking off the 1987 golf year will be held Dec. 31-Jan. 3 on three Monterey Peninsula courses: The Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club, the Carmel Valley Ranch and Pebble Beach.

It will mark the first time the Carmel Valley Ranch has been used in the rotation and the first time the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club and Quail Lodge, the only five-star hotel on the Monterey Peninsula, has been used as tournament headquarters.

The announcement of the new rotation in golf courses and the new headquarters was made jointly by tournament director Harold Firstman and Jacques Hetrick, director of public relations for Spalding.

"We're attempting to add a new dimension to the Spalding by taking an approach that has been so successful for the Bob Hope Desert Classic by rotating our headquarters course each year," Firstman said.

The Lodge at Pebble Beach has been used in recent years and will be used again in the future, as will the Carmel Valley Ranch when its new hotel and golf course have been completed.

"This will offer the contestants an opportunity for more variety in the tournament," Firstman said. "All the courses we will be using now and in the future will be the finest quality courses available."

"The addition of the Carmel Valley Ranch, which will replace Del Monte, is exciting," Firstman added.

Joining Norman, the latest of the early entrants, in the field will be Craig Stadler, Johnny Miller, Al Geiberger and the defending Spalding champion Tim Norris. The five golfers have 44 tour victories among them, led by Miller's 22 and Geiberger's 11.

Norman, of course, is the reigning British Open champion and the current tour money leader with a record $653,292 in official earnings. Having concluded his PGA Tour schedule for the year, Norman will most probably lose the title in the end to Bob Tway, the man who beat him in the recent PGA with his spectacular trap shot on the final hole. Tway trails Norman by just $23,000 at $630,116. Andy Bean is a distant third at $467,072.

Miller has won both the British and the U.S. Opens, Stadler the Masters and Geiberger the PGA.

Norman won a baby Grand Slam of his own this year, leading all four majors through the first three rounds, a feat that had never been done before and probably will never be done again.

It took a 30 on the finishing nine by Jack Nicklaus to deprive him of the Masters title and Tway's trap shot on the final hole to deprive him of the PGA title.

"You can never control what the other guy does in this sport," said Norman. "That's one of the great aspects of golf, one of the reasons why it never ceases to amaze me."

"But to get too up when you win and too down when you lose, that's not me," said the man they call The Great White Shark. "The nature of the sport is that you're going to lose more than you win, so you just take your medicine and move on."

"I led all four majors entering the final round and won one," he said. "I would have liked to win more. I would have liked to win all four... I hope to win the Grand Slam one day. I think I can. That's the challenge."

The Spalding turned down more than 1,000 amateur entries last year "and I don't know how many touring pros," said Firstman.

For the first time in its history there will be two qualifying tournaments for professionals seeking spots in this year's Spalding. Both will be conducted by the Northern California PGA at dates and sites to be named later. One will be for Northern California PGA members only and one will be an open qualifying test. Both will offer three spots in the Spalding.

As in past years, all proceeds for the charity-oriented Spalding Pro-Am will be turned over to the Monterey Kiwanis Club.

Advance ticket information is available by calling the Spalding Pro-Am office at 484-2151. Ticket information is also available by writing the Spalding office at Box M, Carmel, CA 93921.

Annual gem and mineral show set

THE CARMEL VALLEY Gem and Mineral Society's 27th annual show will take place at the Monterey Fairgrounds on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 27-28.

Included among the exhibits will be displays of Monterey jade, carved jade, channel jewelry, rhodochrosite from Japan, carved green alabaster figurines and other gemstone creations, as well as a multitude of slabs and cabochons.

Returning this year will be the $1.5 million chess set. The chessboard is of diamond-encrusted onyx. The playing pieces, warriors of a mythical battle, are of jeweled gold and platinum and some boast moving parts.

More than 60 guest and member exhibitors will be showing their collections, representing varied aspects of the lapidary arts. Artisans will demonstrate such crafts as silver engraving, wire jewelry making and faceting — the transformation of rough gemstones into the jewels seen and admired in fine quality rings and necklaces. Dealers will also be present.

There will be a snack bar, grab bags for sale and a door prize drawing.

Hours for the gem and mineral show are 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday; 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. A $1.50 donation will be requested at the door.

WHAT'S PLAYING AT THE MOVIES

ALIENS: Sigourney Weaver stars in this sequel to the 1979 sci-fi thriller, Alien, as an astronaut threatened by a horrific creature capable of assuming any shape. Rated R. At the Cinema 70. 373-4777.

THE BOY WHO COULD FLY: Nick (The Last Starfighter) Castle wrote and directed this film about believing in dreams. The story focuses on the members of a family who find it difficult to adjust following the loss of their father, and their encounters with a new neighbor who pretends to fly. The cast includes Lucy Deakins, Jay Underwood, Colleen Dewhurst, Fred Gwynne and Mindy Cohn. Rated PG. At the Crossroads Cinema. 624-2792.

CROCODILE DUNDEE: Paul Hogan stars as an Australian hunter and Linda Kozlowski is the woman who lures him from the outback to teeming New York in this lighthearted romantic adventure. Rated PG-13. At the State Three Cinemas. 372-4555.

FERRIS BUELLER'S DAY OFF: Matthew (War Games) Broderick stars as the high school senior who wildly manipulates a day of freedom. Comedic complications arise regarding his family, his best friend (Alan Ruck) and his girl (Mia Sara). John Hughes directs. Rated PG-13. Ends Sept. 25 at the State Three Cinemas. 372-4555.

THE FLY: Jeff Goldblum stars in the remake of the classic science fiction horror story about a man who becomes a human fly. Goldblum portrays an unhappy scientist whose molecules are scrambled up with those of a common house fly. Rated R. Ends Sept. 25 at the State Three Cinemas. 372-4555.

LEGAL EAGLES: Debra Winger, Robert Redford and Darryl Hannah co-star in this mystery-comedy, directed by Ivan Reitman, which concerns an art fraud case that leads to murder. Redford and Winger play lawyers and Hannah is the performance artist who may or may not be guilty as charged. Rated PG. Ends Sept. 25 at the Valley Cinema. 624-5111.

NOTHING IN COMMON: This dramatic comedy focuses on an ambitious young advertising agent whose life is shattered when his parents divorce after 34 years of marriage. Tom Hanks, Jackie Gleason and Eva Marie Saint co-star. Rated PG. At the Crossroads Cinema. 624-2792.

THE PATRIOT: Nuclear terrorism is the theme of this suspense thriller starring Gregg Henry, Simone Griffith, Michael J. Pollard and Jeff Conaway. Frank Harris directs. Rated R. At the State Three Cinemas. 372-4555.

ROCKY HORROR PICTURE SHOW: A send-up of remembered monster movies, with the added twist of music, "The Time Warp," "Over at the Frankenstein Place," and an audience that seems to know the lines better than the actors. A long-standing cult classic. Rated R. At the Dream Theater. 372-1331.

A ROOM WITH A VIEW: A witty and delightful version of E.M. Forster's novel about a young English woman whose trip to Florence with a straight-laced chaperone casts a lively shadow over the future. At the Dream Theater. 372-1331.

RUTHLESS PEOPLE: Bette Midler and Danny DeVito portray, respectively, an obnoxious woman and her loathsome husband. He is delighted when she is kidnapped, but she proves so disagreeable that the kidnappers beg the husband to take her back. Rated R. At the Regency Theatre. 375-6696.

SHADOW PLAY: A playwright confronts her memories in her dead lover's hometown. This drama features Dee Wallace, Stone and Cloris Leachman. Rated R. At the Valley Cinema. 624-5111.

SHANGHAI SURPRISE: Sean Penn and Madonna star in this adventure about the opium trade. At the Dream Theater. 372-1331.

STAND BY ME: A charmingly acted saga of four kids on a weekend adventure in search of a dead boy, based on a sentimental Stephen King story. Rated R. At the Golden Bough Theatre. 624-4044.

TOP GUN: Tom Cruise is a maverick F-14 pilot and Kelly McGillis is an astrophysicist in this adventure film set in the world of jet fighter pilots attending the Navy's Fighter Weapons School. At the State Three Cinemas. 372-4555.

ON STAGE

Follies

Follies, a musical by James Goldman and Stephen Sondheim, opens Friday, Sept. 26 at The Wharf Theater in Monterey. Directed by Larry Ayo, Follies is a celebration of the present that confronts the past. The musical builds upon the reunion of two former Follies showgirls and their husbands, each a former stage door johnny. Their party chatter gives way to deeper reflection and confrontation with personal, self-deluding "follies."

Follies will be staged at 8:30 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays and 8 p.m. Sundays through Nov. 16. Tickets are $10 and $8. The theater is on Old Fisherman's Wharf in Monterey. Reservations: 372-2882.

Sam Shepard One-Acts

Monterey Peninsula College stages three of Sam Shepard's one-act plays in its SRO Theatre.

The plays, all three of which feature cowboys and the Shepard theme of the wild versus the civilized, will play 8 p.m. Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays until Sept. 27.

Cowboys No. 2 focuses on two young, modern-day cowboys and their illusions about the Old West. Killer's Head is a

Art museum honors volunteer network

The Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art Association will honor its volunteers at a dessert party from 1:30 to 3 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 29, at the museum.

The party is open to all museum members who serve in various capacities as volunteers, as well as prospective volunteers and members.

The party will include exhibits of work by the Museum on Wheels volunteers who take art programs to schools in the four-county Central Coast region, the Museum Docents who take visitors on tours through the museum exhibitions and present the Creative Response art appreciation program to local schools; the Jesters' fundraising travel programs; the Gourmet Dinner; the Country Store; the Festival of Trees workshop; the Castro-Work Adobe Docents; the Better-Than-Usual Sale staff; the Gift Shop group; the Mailing Committee, and the Board of Trustees and its various committees.

For further information, call the museum at 372-5477.

monologue about a former horse rancher who is now a sentenced killer. The third one-act, The Unseen Hand, is a fantasy/adventure in which an extraterrestrial from the future meets cowboys from the past on modern-day earth.

Because of the strong language in this production, it may not be suitable for all family members. General admission is $4, $2 for season ticket holders. Curtain is at 8 p.m. The theater is at 980 Fremont Blvd., Monterey. For reservations, call 646-4213.

Robin Hood: The King Returns

Arch-villain Baron Reneau seeks to destroy the knavish Robin Hood in this production — a sequel to last year's Robin Hood - A New Adventure — written by local playwright Dan Gotch. Robin Hood: The King Returns is staged Thursdays through Sundays at the Outdoor Forest Theater, Mountain View and Santa Rita, Carmel.

The GroveMont Theater production features Stephen Moorer as Robin Hood, Mark Shuler as Baron Reneau, Florence Larson as Eleanor of Aquitaine and Ron Cohen as the Sheriff of Nottingham.

Coinciding with the 8 p.m. play is a Medieval Faire, presented before the play and at intermission. Theater-goers are invited to arrive at 7 p.m. and observe a variety of live entertainment and staged combat. Food and beverages will be available for purchase.

Thursday and Sunday ticket prices for Robin Hood: The King Returns are $6.50 general, $5 for students and senior citizens and $4 for children 12 and younger. On Fridays and Saturdays ticket prices are $7.50 general, $6 for students and senior citizens and $5 for children 12 and younger. Warm dress is advised. For advance tickets call 649-5561. For information on group rates or theater parties, call 649-6852.

Painting Churches

Saturday, Sept. 27 marks the final performance in The GroveMont Theater Arts Center series of productions written by and about women. Painting Churches is a comedic drama by Tina Howe, author of Museum and The Art of Dining. Painting Churches tells of Gardner and Fanny Church who, with their daughter Mags, prepare to move out of their summer cottage on Cape Cod. Gardner, once a famous poet, slips in and out of senility as his wife Fanny valiantly tries to keep them both afloat. Mags, home to help them move, tries to paint a family portrait.

Painting Churches plays in the GroveMont Theater Arts Center at 320 Hoffman in New Monterey. Curtain is 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, Sept. 25-27.

Ticket prices are $6.50 general and $5 for students and seniors. For further information and group rates call 649-6852.

A Fool's Paradise

A turn-of-the-century whodunit in which an enterprising wife seeks relief from her husband plays at California's First Theatre.

A Fool's Paradise continues at 8:30 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays through September at the oldest theater in the state, Scott and Pacific streets, Monterey.

Tickets are $5 for adults, $4 for seniors and teens and $3 for children 12 and younger. For information, call 375-4916 between 1 p.m. and show time.

Former follies performer

No Sex Please, We're British!

A bedroom farce that focuses on the misadventures of a newly-married couple continues at The Studio Theatre/Restaurant.

The cast includes Vicki Blaszcak as the bride, Geoff Johnston as her husband, Charles Smith as a visiting bank inspector and Robert Basgall as a muddled friend.

Dinner is at 7 p.m. with an 8:30 p.m. curtain Thursdays through Saturdays at the dinner-theater on Dolores Street between Ocean and Seventh avenues, Carmel. Dinner and show price is $24.50 per person, exclusive of tax and gratuity. Tickets: 624-1661.

THEATER REVIEW

BY JOANNE TENENBAUM

Early Sam Shepard one-acts play MPC

MONTEREY PENINSULA College's SRO Theater offers three early one-acts by Sam Shepard, a prize-winning playwright and actor whose work most people seem either to love or hate. We might have been spared the experience had Shepard not gone on to surpass these fledgling efforts. Written in the sixties for the then-accessible off-off Broadway scene, The Unseen Hand, Cowboys #2 and Killer's Head, record the young playwright's sometimes clumsy experiments with themes he has since expressed more successfully.

The Unseen Hand, the longest of the three pieces, is a surreal, futuristic encounter between Blue Morphan, a 120-year-old alcoholic cowboy and lone survivor of the Morphan Brothers Gang, and Willie the Space Freak, an over-dressed alien from an oppressive planet seeking the help of Morphan and his dead brothers to liberate Nogoland. Sigh. Willie succeeds in resurrecting the dead Morphan brothers and rejuvenating Blue only to watch as the brothers are held at bay by a high school senior with his pants down. Although this play is relatively humorless, I find it impossible to take this sort of thing seriously.

Shepard's message seems to be that the complexities of modern American life have displaced the ideal of rugged individuality once glorified in the myth of the American gunslinger. The playwright's resurrected outlaw has nothing left to look forward to but a ride-on lawn mower. Worse, Shepard bails out of his sinking plot to make a sophomoric point ("Do whatever you want. This is your world.") in a reversal scene that just does not work.

Frederick P. Dodge's robust Blue Morphan is ably backed up by Greg Coleman's menacing Cisco Morphan and Jonathan Seydel's elegantly sleazy Sycamore Morphan, and Thomas Burks' Willie the Space Freak wields a peculiar sort of wooden power, but The Unseen Hand, despite their efforts, is probably better left unseen.

Cowboys #2 features Burks and Seydel as two cowboys who seem to be waiting for Godot. While they wait, they talk, revealing themselves as victims in an apparent wasteland. They puzzle over which dipper is the big one and swap fallacies about diabetes. It is unclear, at least to me, whether their naivete is simply noticed or perhaps mourned by the playwright. Their only effective action is fending off imaginary Indians with imaginary rifles, and even in this, only one of them succeeds. Burks holds his accent well, and Seydel strives to up the angst level, but Cowboys #2 remains a muddled piece of ephemera, signifying little.

Which brings us to Killer's Head, a monologue, the final and most effective piece of the three, in which a blindfolded man, strapped into an electric chair, forces himself through a detailed, image-laden rhapsody to horse breeding and the rodeo life. With peninsula heavyweight Larry Welch in the hotseat, the power of this brief monologue performance contrasts strongly with what has gone before.

MPC's Sam Shepard One-Acts are directed conscientiously enough by Gina Ferrari, but these early plays are interesting mainly for students of Shepard's work. On their own, for the most part, these one-acts are hardly the right stuff.

Autumn/winter affect Big Sur bus service

Monterey-Salinas Transit has announced that two routes — line 22-BIG SUR and the Free Shuttle — have been adjusted for the upcoming winter season.

Line 22-BIG SUR will go into hiatus until April 1987 when it will once again provide a transit connection between the Monterey Peninsula and the Big Sur Coast.

The Free Shuttle connecting downtown Monterey, the Aquarium, Cannery Row, and Fisherman's Wharf now operates on weekends and major holidays only from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Complete transit information is available by calling Monterey-Salinas Transit at 899-2555 or 424-7695.

Community band switches rehearsal location

Members of the Monterey Community Band have changed the location of their weekly rehearsal from the Monterey Community Center to Monterey High School's cafeteria on Herrmann Drive in Monterey. The meeting time remains the same, 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The Monterey Community Band is sponsored by the City of Monterey Parks and Recreation Department. Recruitment of the all-volunteer band began last spring. Since then, local musicians at varying levels of proficiency have come forth, however, there is still a need for more musicians.

Heinrich Bender, M.M., Ph.D., serves as conductor; Saul Mokowitz serves as the band manager. There are no fees involved but musicians must provide their own instrument and music stand. For more information, telephone 646-3866.

Varied impressions reflected in new Carmel art show

Landscape paintings by Ron Wagner and etchings, watercolors and color drawings by Susan Manchester will be featured in a new exhibition at First Impressions. A reception for the artists is scheduled 6 to 8 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 27 at the gallery on Dolores Street and Sixth Avenue, Carmel. Wagner's watercolors and oils are a study in California aesthetics. He tackles simple subjects: a weather-beaten white-washed wall with precisely drawn purple irises growing in the foreground... raw material refined. Trees are scruffy, birds look like they've traveled a million miles; the depth of his work evokes mood and memory.

Manchester will be exhibiting etchings, watercolors and color drawings. She defines herself primarily as a printmaker and has studied in Italy with Giorgio Morandi and in San Francisco with Gordon Cook. She takes great interest in everyday objects and juxtapositions which make up her surroundings, and keeps her editions relatively small in order to remain an artist/printer.

The public is invited to attend the reception Saturday evening and speak with Wagner and Manchester further about their work. For more information call 625-5626.

RON WAGNER'S landscape paintings and Susan Manchester's drawings and watercolors share the spotlight in the new exhibit at First Impressions. The gallery is on Dolores Street at Sixth Avenue, Carmel.

Food irradiation pros, cons to be discussed

The benefits and problems of preserving food by irradiation will be discussed in a public forum slated for 7 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 25 in the Salinas Community Center.

A New Jersey company is considering Salinas as a site to build a plant that would use low-level radiation to preserve fresh fruits and vegetables.

Niel Nielson of Emergent Technologies, a San Jose-based company which is developing food irradiation equipment, and Joel Hill of the Coalition to Stop Food Irradiation will be presenting opposing points of view on the new technology.

The presentation is sponsored by the Central Coast Pesticide Coalition, a volunteer educational and political organization. It will be held in Gabilan Room D at the community center, which is located at 940 N. Main St., in Salinas. The event is free and open to the public.

Refreshments will be served.

Proponents of food irradiation argue that the process will reduce food spoilage and food poisoning, and eliminate the need for post-harvest fumigation of food with chemicals. Opponents are concerned that the new technology will result in the release of radiation in the atmosphere, may cause food contamination, and will lead to hazardous conditions for workers in the food preservation plants.

Artist finds expression in multi-media forum

ON FRIDAY EVENING, Sept. 26, Ken Fadem will celebrate the opening of his fourth Monterey Peninsula show of paintings or photography. This, his second show at the Calle Court Gallery on Calle Principal in Monterey, will consist mostly of small oil paintings, none of which have been exhibited before, along with a few of his better-known pastels.

The artist may be better known to members of the Carmel and Big Sur communities for his articles in the Carmel Pine Cone. He has been periodically contributing commentary on various political issues. He is also an avid gardener, drama enthusiast, is working on a couple of plays which he hopes to produce here, has written photography reviews in the past, and does a cartoon now and then for our weekly publication. Eclectic, outspoken, Ken Fadem has given the Pine Cone a candid interview of his thoughts on Carmel, painting, and himself.

Int: How do you find time for your various skills?

K.F.: Stretch them out; there's no hurry, no place in particular to go. The results are accumulative. When I'm not writing I'm painting; when I'm not painting I'm photographing or reading or getting nervous over a piece of music; when I'm not doing any of these I'm groveling about on my hands and knees in the garden playing with tubers and the like. I seem to need a variety of activities to stimulate one another. Besides, something fundamental runs through all of them; only the material changes.

If I had to do one thing all the time I'd be a raving lunatic; haven't the temperament for it. I don't mind being a lunatic but not over a single issue. As an artist I've crawled too often into the "egg," wound my way into too many existential corners.

Int: Is that a bad place to be?

K.F.: Actually, I love it, like a good cosmic joke, but it gets lonesome there.

Int: Isn't there conflict or stress at times?

K.F.: It gets internally busy at times; things bang against one another, but that's part of being alive. The emphasis on stress these days is a bit ridiculous. There's much stress but you can't make it go away by making it unfashionable. Why not immerse yourself in it and enjoy it.

Int: With all this activity how come you've added writing political commentary?

K.F.: I had some personal motives for getting involved with local politics, and I felt I might make a contribution. I'm not so sure I have. Little or nothing truly innovative has been added by my voice; rather, I've organized and amplified thoughts already prevalent in the political atmosphere but which were muted, barely concealed, whispered, privately brewed. Analysis was my own. However, the cold and angular tone of my writing has been for some offensive. Not everyone is prepared for "cold facts," hard reason, aggressive statements, and I can understand their response. Even to myself the words sometimes have lacked a sufficient amount of poetry, but nevertheless I've been compelled to lay them out in open debate. I think it's a matter of style rather than substance. Perhaps I find it difficult to be charming in a political context — a flaw no doubt. Putting poetry and politics together may be too much to ask. Have you ever tried to blend oatmeal with razor blades?

Int: You've been one of the most vocal supporters of the present administration.

K.F.: I just think they should be given the opportunity to show what they can do, and I believe they've done a fine job of it so far.

Int: Do you know the mayor?

K.F.: We met once, briefly, just after the election. I said "Congratulations," and he said "Thank you." That was the first, last and only conversation we've had. My views have been based on issues and observations.

Int: I think our readers in Carmel would like to know just what your personal feelings are about this town and what your relationship is to it.

K.F.: There's no doubt it's beautiful and special. But I won't say I love it yet. Carmel is also a community of people and not all of it is lovable. For several years I viewed much of this community as a stubborn bunch of hard-headed individualists. Eventually I began to realize that this is part of its strength and unique character.

Then during the election last spring I witnessed an energy and excitement that I didn't know existed here. I'm not talking politics or the outcome of the election; I'm talking about a vitality and communal will to face a challenge. I think a lot of people were surprised — Carmel wasn't as stuffy and grizzly as its political reputation had previously imparted. So I jumped in. Push aside the pettiness, which can be found anywhere, and this can be a dynamic community.

In my articles I have never suggested anything more than coming to terms, individually and communally, with the present situation. That has been interpreted by some to mean development and despair, which is an absurd response. It means nothing of the sort.

My personal relationship with Carmel remains a growing process; five years hasn't been quite long enough.

Int: Has this area been good for your painting?

K.F.: I've been shmearing my way towards cosmic nirvana for a long time, 45 years since I did my first painting. I was six. About four years ago it finally came together, here, in the fog and the sea and the rocks, especially the fog — it's the minimal sort of image I needed. I like to joke about it, call it the "metaphysical fog!"

However, under the present cultural umbrella paint may be somewhat of a flat issue, which simply means that it isn't talking to many people. Painting has been overwhelmed, I believe, by the complexities of contemporary thought. Paint is a coarse medium for the developing character of our age. People seeking a spiritual path today go to a seminar, not a museum or gallery. They want to feel cosmic origins in their bones, in their blood, in their Mercedes. I don't blame 'em. Painting is too sluggish, too claustrophobic, too private, but it's a gift that has served me well. It's been poetry for me and still is.

Int: Isn't the metaphysical market growing?

K.F.: It is, but I believe that it will be expressed in the form of human beings themselves, rather than in a substance like paint. Just "being" becomes the essential act, all the doing inherent in that act alone. Maybe someday we'll hang gurus on a gallery wall so that people can come and experience their presence.

Int: You're being facetious!

K.F.: Only in imagery, not in spirit.

Int: You will continue to paint?

K.F.: I may just don a loincloth and nail myself to a gallery wall.

Int: And your photography?

K.F.: I am sitting on a lot of work that has never been exhibited. Biased though I am, I feel the work is quite original and possibly profound. I hate to see it sitting in a closet. The marketplace for photography is ultra-conservative here and my work won't fit into that niche, but it'll find its place.

The opening reception for Ken Fadem will take place 5 to 9 p.m. Friday, Sept. 26. It has often been noted that openings can be terribly boring as though we're required to be solemn in the face of, appalling genius. Fadem guarantees there is nothing appalling here. He invites everyone to make this a festive event. "You needn't be solemn. You don't even have to look at the paintings!"

THIS UNTITLED OIL painting by Ken Fadem is representative of the works he will exhibit in a show opening this weekend at Calle Court Gallery in Monterey.

ROUNDUP

Hong Kong tour travels 'silk roads'

The Jesters, fundraising group of the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, has organized a trip to Hong Kong. The group will travel via "silk roads," a tour designed and personally conducted by two former long-time residents of Hong Kong and Bangkok. They will visit out-of-the-way places that the Hong Kong tourist rarely sees and will include food and bargains from wholesalers. Additional tours will be available for special interest groups (cooking, etc.).

The total cost is $1,495 per person, double occupancy, which includes a donation to the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art. All rates and services are based on a minimum number of 15 and a maximum of 30. The trip may be extended to Bangkok and Singapore — or a stop in Hawaii on the return trip.

Barbara Conley landscapes shown

THE TENTH anniversary showing of Barbara Conley's paintings of rural scenes will open with a reception from 4 to 7 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 27 at New Masters Gallery. The gallery is on Sixth Avenue near San Carlos Street in Carmel.

Specially featured in this year's show, which will continue through Friday, Oct. 24, are her color-true, tranquil paintings of the historic native stone and wood mills of Missouri, their water-wheels now silent.

Conley's paintings, which have won a dozen awards in the past few years from the Society of Western Artists, the Motherlode National Art Exhibition, and S. Grumbacher and Son, are a respite from the stress and tensions of nuclear-age living. Along with mills of yesterday her subjects are weathered valley homesteads and tin-roofed barns, and the sun-splashed dirt roads winding among California's green and golden hills.

For more information call 625-1511.

The Arthritis Foundation is asking local photographers to give their best shot to the 1986 photography contest.

A $300 first prize, a $200 second prize, and a $100 third prize will be awarded. Photographs submitted to the contest will be used by the Arthritis Foundation in its national and local publications and to publicize its work to help people with arthritis.

Each time a photo is used, the photographer will be given credit. Photographs can be submitted in a variety of categories including:

•Research — Not necessarily of arthritis research but photos should depict a laboratory-type of situation which suggests research.

•Health Professionals — Can be depicted in their particular work setting or interacting with patients.

•Inspirations — Photos in this category should convey messages of hope and positive attitudes toward life.

•Everyday Activities — Photos should show children or adults either observing or participating in everyday activities.

•Families — Photos should depict members of a family working or playing together.

For entry forms and more information, contact your local Arthritis Foundation chapter or write: Arthritis Foundation; Photo Contest; 1314 Spring St., NW; Atlanta, GA 30309. Deadline for submission is Dec. 31.

The Arthritis Foundation is the only national voluntary health agency looking for the answers — cause, treatment, cure — to all forms of arthritis diseases. It has 71 chapters and divisions nationwide and is headquartered in Atlanta.

Be assured of a reservation by making a deposit of $200 per person to: The Jesters, care of Carvel van der Bruch; Box 78; Pebble Beach, CA 93953; 372-1069.

Senior citizens offered check-ups

Free health check-ups for persons over age 55 will be offered by the Senior Citizen and Nursing Services (SCANS) program of the Monterey County Health Department. Appointments are required for the check-ups, which are offered at different sites in Monterey County throughout the month.

The service will be offered in Carmel at the Presbyterian Church, Ocean and Junipero. To make an appointment, call 899-4271 or 757-1061.

Suicide Prevention seeks volunteers

If you are someone who can listen, understand and give calm, competent and gentle support to a distressed person, the Suicide Prevention Center will train you to become a member of a supportive team of volunteers helping people on a crisis line.

Crisis line volunteers serve an average of four hours per week, six months after training.

Volunteers are also needed to assist with the fund-raising committee and speakers' bureau. For more information or an application, call 375-6966, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. After 4 p.m. and on weekends, call 649-8008 or 424-1425.

Well baby, child health clinics

A well baby and child health clinic will meet Monday, Oct. 6 at the Monterey office of the Monterey County Health Department, 1200 Aguajito Road. Call 899-4271 for an appointment.

A well baby and child health clinic will be offered at the Seaside office, 1292 Olympia Ave., on Monday, Oct. 20 — also by appointment.

Fifth annual show of seascapes opens at Carmel's Simic Galleries

FOR THE FIFTH year more than 200 seascapes by a variety of artists will be assembled at Simic Galleries in Carmel. The all-seascape exhibit will open with a champagne reception, 5 to 9 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 27 at the gallery on San Carlos Street near Sixth Avenue.

Among the artists whose works will be represented are Stephen Mirich, a member of the National Maritime Historical Society. Mirich grew up a short distance from the waterfront and his knowledge of it is reflected in his detailed paintings of ships. Accurate in each detail, Mirich precisely depicts the listing of each ship, wind-sail movement and allows even the most discriminating sailing buffs no chance to doubt his knowledge of sail rigging.

Maurice Meyer studied at the Memphis Art Academy and continued his training in the area of landscape and seascape painting. He served as police sketch artist for the television program, The FBI, and his paintings are housed in public and private collections, including those of Bob Hope, Efrem Zimbalist Jr., former President Richard Nixon, the governor of Guam, Transworld Insurance Company and others.

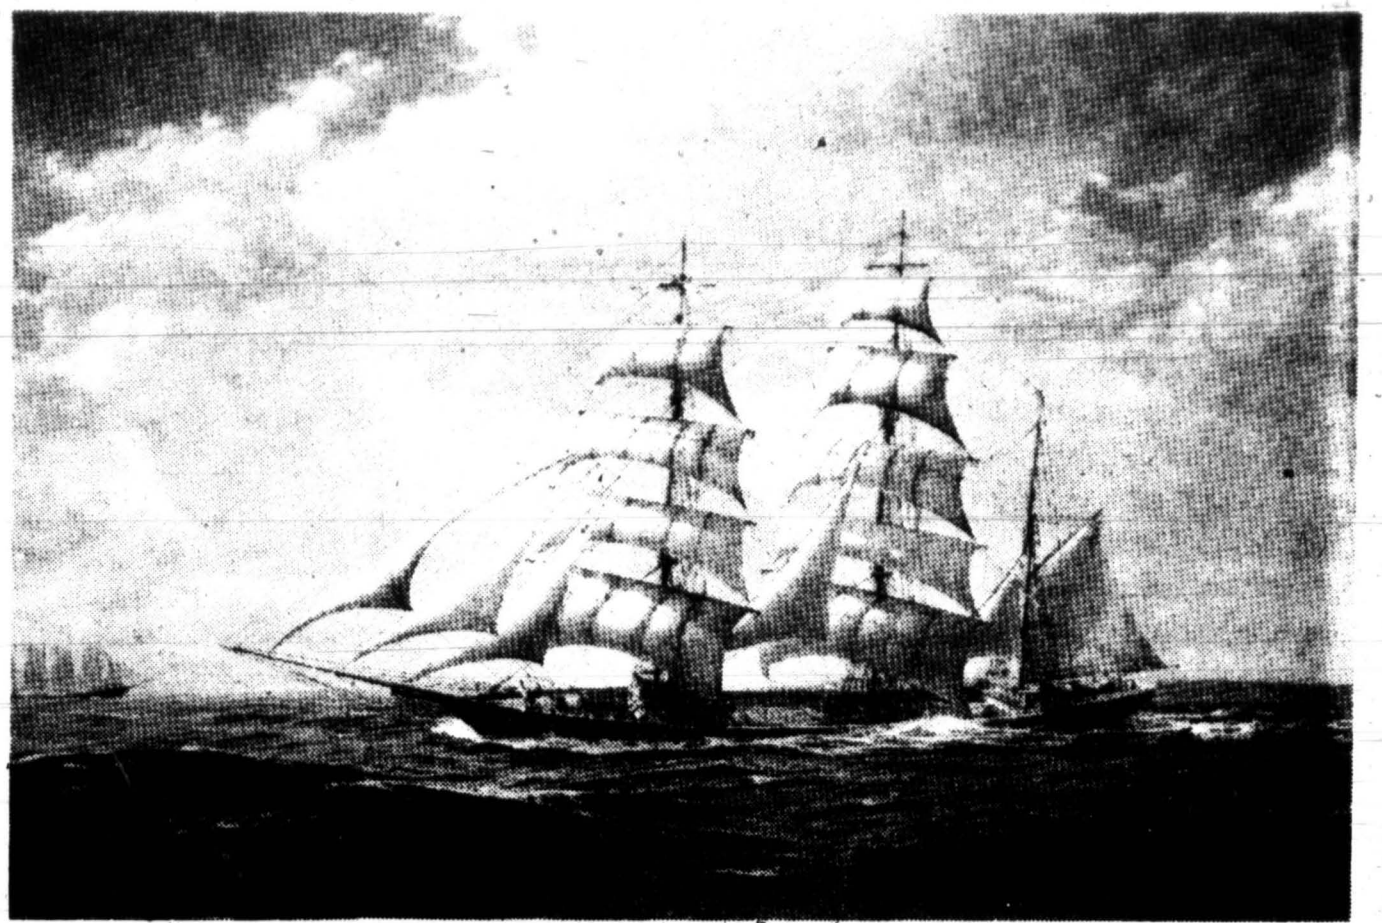

Precise brushwork, detailed imagery and a glazing technique reminiscent of the Renaissance masters distinguish the paintings of Jacquelyn Kresman. The artist has been profiled in Southwest Art Magazine, Connoisseur, Art West, Art News and other publications.

Born in Nazareth, Pa., James Fetherolf came to California after graduating from Syracuse University in 1949. For years he worked for the Fox and Disney studios as a matte artist. Fetherolf has been honored with the Gold Medal of the Franklin Mint Gallery of American Art, was accepted into the bicentennial exhibition with five paintings at the R.W. Norton Museum and was distinguished with a commissioned painting of Washington D.C.'s best-known landmarks.

A seascape artist of the traditional school, Alex Dzigurski was born in Stari Becej, Yugoslavia, of Serbian parents. He studied at the School of Art in Belgrade and at the Academy of Art in Munich, Germany. His paintings are housed in several American museums, including the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, the Ford Museum in Detroit, the Franklin Mint Gallery of American Art and the Oklahoma City Museum of Fine Arts. Among Dzigurski's awards are a gold medal at the Biennale in Venice and the first award at the International Show in Rome.

The reception is open to the public and invitations may be acquired through Simic Galleries. For additional information, call 624-7522.

THE LAST Voyage of the Hesper, a 40-by-60-inch oil on canvas work by Stephen Mirich, is among the sea-themed paintings that will be highlighted this week at Simic Galleries in Carmel.

Local workshop focuses on the business of art

A WORKSHOP designed to provide working artists with current information on the arts and an opportunity to ask experts questions pertinent to the business and marketing of their art arrives Monday, Sept. 29.

The arts workshop will take place 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, 559 Pacific St. in Monterey. It is co-sponsored by the museum, Assemblyman Sam Farr, Senator Henry Mello and the California Legislature's Joint Committee on the Arts.

The workshop will begin with remarks from Assemblyman Farr and Senator Mello, followed by an overview presented by Paul Minicucci, consultant to the State Arts Committee.

A panel discussion begins at 10 a.m. featuring Jo Farb Hernandez, executive director of Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, discussing how to work with museums and galleries; Lukman Glasgow, arts grants administrator, California Arts Council, who will speak on grants and fellowships; Marilyn Taketa, a tax expert and Richard Minkoff who will explain contracts.

Taketa and Minkoff will be representing Bay Area Lawyers for the Arts. From 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. there will be questions, answers, discussion and closing comments.

The workshop is free of charge. For further information, contact Assemblyman Farr's office at 646-1980 or 425-1503.

California sea otter behavior investigated

"Behavior of California Sea Otters" will be the topic at the Thursday, Sept. 25 meeting of the Monterey Bay Chapter of the American Cetacean Society.

Featured speaker at the 7:30 p.m. gathering will be Marianne Riedman of the Monterey Bay Aquarium. The group will meet in Fisher Hall of Hopkins Marine Station, Pacific Grove.

Riedman currently directs the Monterey Bay Aquarium Sea Otter Field Research Program with Jim Estes of the UCSC Institute of Marine Sciences. The information presented in her talk will be based on the observation made of tagged sea otters in the Monterey area by researchers in the program.

She will discuss the surprising amount of variation seen among individual sea otters with respect to their social, reproductive and foraging behavior. The talk will focus on the behavior of mother-pup pairs and recently weaned pups.

Riedman has participated in various sea otter studies, beginning in 1976 when she helped Tom Loughlin capture and radio-tag sea otters at Hopkins Marine Station.

Divergent styles teamed in dual show at Landell

'COLLABORATION,' an art show featuring the abstract-impressionist paintings of Brian Niebauer and the brushed ink calligraphy paintings of Yin Ling Miao Chan will open with a 4 to 7 p.m. reception Saturday, Sept. 27, in Landell Galleries of Carmel.

More than a duo show, it is a trio exhibition of his new works, her new works and their new works. The latter are the pastel and buttermilk "finger paintings" on which the pair collaborated.

The collaboration began friendship and a mutual admiration of one another's work.

EMPLOYING a classical Chinese calligraphy technique, Yin Ling Miao Chan captures the essence of a cat.

Niebauer says, "She taught me speed." Yin Ling says, "He taught me color." They both say, "From the first we felt as though we had known one another for a thousand years."

The collaboration is a wonder, considering the vast differences in their art training and painting styles. But somehow Niebauer's brilliant palette and impasto painting style, and Yin Ling's brushed ink technique manage to harmonize in the pastels the two paint together.

Hong Kong-born Yin Ling was graduated from college in London, England, and began an intense study of Chinese calligraphy which included work with the Chinese master, Lui Tai. On her own she began applying her classical Chinese calligraphy technique to create whimsical brushed ink paintings of birds and beasts on rice paper. It is her goal, she said, to render everything in "one continuous line."

"The speed with which a continuous stroke must be applied in order to control the flow of ink demands spontaneity in creation — at times best described as supernatural."

"Painting on rice paper is totally unforgiving, not unlike applying ink to blotting paper. No preliminary sketching is permitted, or even hesitation. It is not uncommon for me to discard (dozens) before producing a finished painting to my satisfaction."

Yin Ling's older works are black-on-white. In the new ones, inspired by Niebauer's colorism, the black images are brushed over burnished pastel abstract backgrounds.

Yin Ling is represented by galleries in London and Switzerland, as well as by Landell. Her work is included in the Achenback Collection of Graphic Arts in the Palace of the Legion of Honor in San Francisco.

NEIBAUER, who earned his bachelor of fine arts at the University of Nebraska, was showing and selling his paintings before his graduation. Now in his mid-30s, the artist taught in Denver Public Schools, lectured on art and did graduate work in the University of Colorado while earning praise for his shows in Denver, Santa Fe and Taos. His paintings have been described by critics as celebratory, joyful, vital, exuberant, happy, playful, brilliant, refreshing, radiant and lyrical.

One Colorado critic called him "a sorcerer of delight (full of) cosmic merriment" whose abstracts are "animated, alive ... exhibiting an uncanny union of color, form and light." Max Price of the Denver Post said "Niebauer's paintings vibrate with excitement and energy ... they are a vivid antidote for the blahs ... if you are depressed, they are better than Valium."

Most of his oil paintings are characterized by thickly painted king-sized "pointillist" dots which separate the various wave lengths of color as do the dots of color on a television screen. Because pure oil paint that thick would never dry, Niebauer mixes the oil pigments with a cooked combination of beeswax and turpentine. He said this material is the same as that used to preserve the wrappings of mummies by Egyptians and has the advantage of preventing the paint from cracking since it can expand and contract with changes of temperature and humidity.

While the imagery in the oil paintings is what Niebauer calls "landscape-y," suggesting sky, land and water, the scenes often are humanized with houses, people and animals.

The artist said, "Sometimes I see people peeking out when I'm painting, so I just let them be there." The pastels are as gentle as the paintings are boisterous, characterized by light and color, but in a softer, more poetic form. Favorite images in these are jars, vases or bottles, often filled with ethereal flowers, and houses.

Niebauer remarked, "I like containers, especially glass ones, because of the way they affect light. And houses because, well, they're people-containers."

Among the artist's private collectors are

William Bomar, Elmer L. Dresslar and Betty Ford. His art also is included in museums in Taos, N.M., and Lincoln, Neb., as well as the University of Colorado. He has been honored with solo shows in Nebraska, Colorado, New Mexico, Texas and California and is working toward his first showing in London next year.

Volunteers in Action seeks additional helpers

Are you supportive to those in trouble, do you have skills the community needs? Let Volunteers In Action (VIA) match your supportive talent and skills with fulfilling volunteer opportunities. VIA has more than 200 listed positions from which to choose. Here are six needed immediately.

•A child care worker is needed to assist in supervising "at risk" children in a therapeutic environment.

The volunteer will work with children individually and in groups, supervise children's play, help prepare meals and observe and record children's behavior. Characteristics VIA is looking for include a sensitivity to emotionally stressed children and the ability to communicate in a safe and supportive manner.

•A salesperson for a gift shop is needed who likes selling merchandise, can make change and likes meeting people. Donated items must be unpacked and priced and the volunteer does this task as well as sells. A willingness to work and get along with people are desired traits in the volunteer.

•A receptionist for a volunteer group is needed — one who will be willing to serve as a liaison between the public and the office, to answer the telephone and greet visitors, take messages and assist the staff with clerical duties. A pleasant telephone manner, warm personality, and general clerical skills are the qualifications.

Alcohol center seeks volunteers

The Black Women's Alcohol Services Program, located at the Community Alcohol Center in Seaside, is now open to train volunteers in various aspects of the program.

Services include a speakers' bureau, resource library and confidential counseling designed to address the concerns of black women in the community.

The program is part of the Community Human Services Project. For more information, drop in or call Karen at Community Alcohol Center, 1001 Elm Ave., Seaside, 93955, 899-4131.

Women's support group gathers

A battered women's support group sponsored by the YWCA meets at 1 p.m. Fridays at the Family Resource Center, 500 Hilby Ave., in Seaside.

Free child care can be provided with advance notice. Call 649-0834.

Typing taught for free

Free typing classes sponsored by the Monterey Adult School continue at Seaside High.

Beginning classes meet on Mondays and Wednesdays and intermediate and review courses will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays. All classes are scheduled 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. in Room B-26. For more information, call 625-1423.

Children's bookmark contest

The Monterey County Library is sponsoring its Fourth Annual Bookmark Contest during the month of September.

Five winners will be selected from each of three categories: ages 4 to 7, 8 to 12, and 13 and above. The bookmark design should be done in black, on white paper, size 8-1/2 by 3 inches, one side only. Pencil is not acceptable.

Contestants may enter as many designs as desired, but all entries must be submitted to any Monterey County Library branch or station by Tuesday, Sept. 30. Each bookmark must contain name, age, address, phone and library on the back.

The 15 winning bookmarks will be duplicated and distributed throughout the County Library System during National Children's Book Week, Nov. 17 to 23.

TAW Twirlers square dance Fridays

The TAW Twirlers square dance club presents a plus level dance every Friday at the Marina Grange Hall. The program begins at 8 p.m. with a half-hour of round dancing. From 8:30 to 9 p.m. there is a workshop in which Harold Fleeman, the caller, reviews calls he will use the rest of the evening. Dances continue until 10:30 p.m.

For more information about the club, write TAW Twirlers, Box 553, Seaside, 93955.

Frohman Academy auditions performers

Auditions are scheduled Thursday, Sept. 25, for the Frohman Academy production of Heydey.

Subtitled a "New Musical of the 1920s," Heydey is the winner of the second annual national competition for new American musicals sponsored by the American Musical Theatre Festival, producing arm of the Frohman Academy.

Heydey auditions are scheduled 7 to 9:30 p.m. at Cherry Hall, Guadalupe and Fourth, Carmel. Actors should bring a prepared song, no longer than two minutes. Heydey scripts will not be available prior to audition. Rehearsal period will be Sept. 28 to Oct. 10.

Film on alcoholism scheduled

My Father's Son, a film about alcoholism, will be shown at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 1 in the Education Building behind the Community Hospital Recovery Center, 576 Hartnell St., Monterey.

After the film, recovery center staff personnel will lead a discussion on drug and alcohol addiction, and treatment for the disease of chemical dependency. For more information, call 373-0924.

CITY COUNCIL CITY OF CARMEL-BY-SEA ORDINANCE NO. 86-20

AN ORDINANCE ESTABLISHING WATER RESERVE GOALS AND PROCEDURES FOR ESTABLISHING AND MAINTAINING COMPLIANCE WITH THESE GOALS TO ASSURE THAT WATER CONSUMPTION WITHIN THE CITY DOES NOT EXCEED ITS TOTAL WATER ALLOCATION.

WHEREAS, the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District has adopted a long-term water allocation plan which limits the water resources available to the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea to 5.542% of the amount chosen by the Water Management District to be used by the jurisdictions within its boundaries; and

WHEREAS, this allocation creates a total supply of 1030.8 acre-feet of water per year for Carmel-by-the-Sea; and

WHEREAS, the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea has asked in past years for an adjustment in the water allocation and is currently asking for an adjustment in the water allocation; and

WHEREAS, the use of water within the City has been steadily increasing since the drought of 1975 through 1977, and for the most recent twelve-month period the City consumed more than 98% of its total water allocation; and

WHEREAS, the City's management of water supplies as established in Ordinances 84-2 and 85-1, provide for the creation of a water reserve to be achieved through the implementation of conservation measures; and

WHEREAS, without such a reserve, the City is vulnerable to periodic fluctuations in water consumption from changes in the local weather and economic conditions; and

WHEREAS, the use of conserved water for new development, as authorized by City Ordinances, has the potential to preclude the maintenance of a verifiable water reserve and exposes the City to a potential development moratorium imposed by the District; and

WHEREAS, the Water Management District has proposed the suspension of permit processing for the extension and expansion of water systems serving the City for an indefinite period; and

WHEREAS, this proposed action would prohibit the development and improvement of property within the City to the detriment of the planning and zoning goals, policies and ordinances of the City and in contravention of statewide planning goals favoring infill and residential development within each region; and

WHEREAS, the City has the responsibility under the Constitution and Statutes of the State of California to plan and guide its own development in a manner that reflects local conditions, yet is sensitive to the regional impacts of local actions; and

WHEREAS, the City recognizes the unique, regional responsibilities of the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District but finds that the management of the City's water resources can best be attained through local actions that are fully consistent with local planning goals, objectives, policies and ordinances and which do not result in the suspension of local autonomy in land use matters.

NOW, THEREFORE, the City Council of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, does ordain as follows:

Section One. The following section shall be added to Chapter Eight of Title 17 of the Municipal Code:

17.08.080 Reserve Established.
The City shall establish and maintain a water reserve. This reserve is established to assure that periodic and uncontrollable fluctuations in water use will not result in the City exceeding its water supply.

A. The reserve shall be attained by reducing water consumption within the City through conservation programs according to the following schedule:

Date	Water Reserve Goals		Total Allowable Consumption
	Conservation Increment	Water Reserve Total
July 1-1986	2%	2%	98%
July 1-1987	2%	4%	96%
July 1-1988	2%	6%	94%
July 1-1989	2%	8%	92%
July 1-1990	2%	10%	90%

B. Calculation of Running Twelve-Month Water Consumption
Compliance with the reserve goals established in subsection A shall be determined on a monthly basis and shall be based on the water consumption records provided to the City by the California-American Water Company. Upon receipt of each month's report of metered sales, a calculation shall be made by adding the total metered consumption for each of the immediately preceding eleven months to the consumption indicated for the current month.

C. Compliance
At the end of any three-consecutive-month period wherein the twelve-month water consumption total calculated in subsection B has consistently remained below the total allowable consumption established for that fiscal year in subsection A, the City shall have achieved compliance with the reserve goals established by this ordinance.

D. Effect of Compliance
Upon establishing or reestablishing compliance with the water reserve goals set forth in subsection A, the City shall send notice by certified mail to the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District. Ten working days after transmittal of this notice, the City may resume issuing permits and licenses in conformance with Section 17.08.060 and the water allocations established therein.

E. Effect of Noncompliance
1. Upon determining that the City has failed to achieve compliance with the water reserve goals established in subsection A hereinabove, no building permit, business license, use permit or other entitlement authorizing any project as defined in subsection C of Section 17.08.060 shall be issued by the Department of Community Planning and Building and Planning Commission.

For the purposes of implementing this section, the following actions shall not be defined as projects:

a. Design Study approvals or building permits authorizing single-family residential construction on existing, developed building sites, when the construction involves no increase in the number of plumbing fixtures, bathrooms or dwelling units and when all plumbing fixtures on the property are retrofitted to meet the standards established in Chapter 15.28.

b. Commercial Design approvals, commercial use permit approvals, business license approvals and building permits authorizing minor commercial remodeling involving no increase in building floor area, commercial shop spaces, or dwelling units and involving no increase in land use intensity when all plumbing fixtures on the property are retrofitted to meet the standards established in Chapter 15.28. Measures of land use intensity shall include, but shall not be limited to, increased employees within a shop space, increased hours of operation, and increased business activity wherein employees or patrons could be expected to use additional water.

c. Lot line adjustments not resulting in the creation of additional building sites.

Applicants for projects requesting approval under one of these provisions must provide indisputable evidence of satisfaction with these provisions prior to approval of the project.

2. Immediately upon determining a state of noncompliance, the Director or Community Planning and Building shall notify the City Council, the City Building Official, the City Administrator and the Water Management District. The Director shall forward a report to the City Council to be considered at the next regular or special Council meeting concerning the change in status of the City's water consumption. Upon receiving this report and verifying the status of noncompliance, the Council shall adopt a resolution confirming the Director's action.

Section Two. VIOLATIONS. Any person, firm or corporation, whether acting as principal or agent, employee or otherwise, violating or causing or permitting the violation of the provisions of this ordinance, is guilty of an infraction. Any building erected or any use established contrary to the provisions of this ordinance is hereby declared to be unlawful and a public nuisance and the City Attorney shall, upon order of the City Council, immediately commence action for the abatement or removal thereof.

Section Four. EFFECTIVE DATE. This ordinance is hereby declared to be an urgency ordinance as set forth in Section 65858 of the planning and zoning statutes of the California Government Code. Any pending projects that have not received a building permit shall not be approved unless they comply with the terms of this ordinance.

In conformance with section 65858 of the California Government Code, this ordinance shall be valid for a period of sixty-five (65) days after adoption, and after a public hearing, unless it is extended as established by said Section or has been permanently adopted in conformance with Sections 65854 through 65857 of the California Government Code.

PASSED AND ADOPTED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CARMEL BY THE SEA this 22nd day of September 1986, by the following roll call vote:

AYES: COUNCIL MEMBERS Laiolo, Wright, Fisher
NOES: COUNCIL MEMBERS none
ABSENT: COUNCIL MEMBERS Arnold, Eastwood

NEW ESTATE — opening to fairway and Pacific expanses, the opportunity-of-a-lifetime contemporary—spacious yet intimate, warm yet cosmopolitan. Intricate detail in natural redwood and marble, elegant tile, library, three bedrooms suites includes master suite which defies comparison. Well-worth $1,100,000.

ELEGANT MASTER SUITE with fireplace, opening to a garden patio for a fine 3 bedroom, 3 bath home with family room and office alcove on a serene, private lane. Freshly painted, newly carpeted — everything's up-to-speed here! $325,000.

SPANISH CLASSIC — A rare original, formerly owned by Samuel F.B. Morse, now with every convenience of the 80's, but every bit of original character — cathedral open beamed ceilings, French doors to walled patios, plaster walls. 4 bedrooms, 3.5 baths — seldom seen at a surprisingly low $459,500.

FAMILY CONTEMPORARY across from greenbelt, and a stroll to the ocean. Three bedrooms include a superior master suite. Open beamed ceiling, much glass, tiled entry. An outstanding value which stands up to every comparison in the price range. $279,000.

SENSUOUS MASTER SUITE — beautifully renovated 3 bedroom, 2.5 bath home built around a sunny patio. Outstanding master suite with dual-sided fireplace to opulent bath with golden fixtured Jacuzzi and huge shower. Family room plus den alcove. $325,000.

NEAR THE LODGE — Appropriately formal with circular drive entry, and maid's quarters, spacious sunroom with fireplace, wet bar, and wall of glass. Four bedrooms, immense dining room, a gracious master suite with dressing alcove. $775,000.

GAZEBO SPA for a beautifully refurbished 4 bedroom residence in a choice location. Outstanding family room; superior square footage makes this a fine buy at a reduced $272,500 — panicky seller — submit!

COMSTOCK ADOBE along 17-Mile Dr. with white water and fairway view of 2 courses. Renovated 2 bedroom including guest quarters plus den or third bedroom, 3 baths — adobe and wood, much tile and glass. $595,000.

FINEST ESTATE LOCATION with Pt. Lobos view for 4 bedroom, 3 bath residence with extensive guest or in-law quarters. Two fireplaces, cathedral ceilings. $469,000.

FAIRWAY FRONTAGE for a prized gem — 2 bedrooms, 2 baths, den, 2 fireplaces, expansive decking and glorious grounds. Custom quality throughout. Secluded location in an area of much higher-priced homes. $369,000.

HOME OFFICE — Huge workshop and an elaborate home-office for family-ideal 3 bedroom, 2 bath home with triple garage. Family room, wet bar, wood paneling, floor-to-ceiling fireplace. Reduced to $279,000.
